Getting Better All The Time

VOLUME XIII, NUMBER 45. LA CROSSE, WISCONSIN, THURSDAY, JULY 6, 1916. PRICE TWO CENTS.

KAISER REPORTED LEADING SOMME DEFENSE

KOPPELBERGER AND TWO ASSOCIATES TAKE OVER THE LA CROSSE THEATER

H. L. COLMAN AND F. R. SCHWALBE IN BIG THEATER DEAL

Pay $51,500 for Building and Will Put on Best Road Shows and Vaudeville Regularly

REMODEL ENTIRE PLANT

From Top to Bottom It Will Be Improved and New Seats and Heating Plant Installed

The La Crosse theater building, 113-119 South Fifth street, has been purchased from W. F. Gage by F. W. Koppelberger, H. L. Colman and F. R. Schwalbe. The deal was closed through the agency of Johnson and Nebel of the Howel Land company. The new owners took possession last night. The consideration was $51,500. The owners will incorporate.

"We will play the best legitimate road attractions, filling in with first-class vaudeville, and may occasionally accept an exceptional film spectacle, many of which are now in the making," said Mr. Koppelberger today.

Mr. Koppelberger will manage the La Crosse theater as well as the Majestic.

The plans contemplate the immediate remodeling and renovation of the building. New seats throughout, complete derecoration, a new stage floor and new heating plant are among the changes.

The owners will comply to the letter with all the requirements of the state industrial commission. By courtesy of President J. D. Beck, an engineer arrived here today and went carefully over the theater, making the necessary recommendations.

The gallery, which has been unused under an order of the commission, will be reinforced with new supports and reopened, and the latest methods of ventilation and sanitation will be employed.

The candy store will give way to new tenants and the vacant store room will be rented.

BADGER TROOPS GET SPORTING PRESERVE FOR CAMPING PLACE

SAN ANTONIO, July 6.—Wisconsin and Illinois militia encamped here, will be marched to Newbraunfels, thirty-two miles north of the city, to camp in a private park donated by Harry Landa, a capitalist of that place. The troops will have access to fine fishing, bathing and boating facilities.

General Funston today appealed to the citizens of San Antonio to aid in preventing trouble between the Illinois Negro militia regiment here and civilians. He said he had no fear from the better element, but that "rough-necks and rowdies might try to start something with the colored troops." The officers of the Negro guardsmen have been instructed regarding Texas laws applying to blacks.

ARRESTED WHEN HE DID NOTHING HE COMMENCES ACTION

A suit asking damages for alleged false arrest and imprisonment will be brought at the October term of circuit court here by Earnest Ottens, farmer, residing near Ettrick, against Herman Rick, patrolman on the La Crosse police force. Ottens has retained Attorney Frank E. Withrow for counsel.

Ottens charges that he was standing near a railroad station here recently when Rick approached him. He alleges that the patrolman called him vulgar names, dragged him through the streets to central police station, searched his pockets and threw him into a cell containing a batch of drunks.

Ottens also charges that he requested the patrolman to allow him to notify his brother, and that he was refused.

SIX MORE DAYS WILL SEE CAMP DOUGLAS DESERTED

First Regiment to Leave Saturday; Second to Start Monday and Third Regiment on Following Day

COMPANY CAPTAIN APPEAL

Captains Storm Adjutant General Holway for Reinstatement of Men; Re-examinations Are Granted

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Department commanders have been authorized to waive physical defects in cases pertaining to officers and enlisted men in accordance with their judgment, the war press bureau announced this afternoon.

The effect of the order will be greatly to speed up mustering in of militiamen organizations which have been held in camp because of shortages of officers and men.

At 2 o'clock today Captain J. M. Bradley, recruiting officer, said there are no recruits in La Crosse and General Holway's order has not been received here.

CAMP DOUGLAS, Wis., July 6.—(Special.)—The Wisconsin military reservation will be stripped of all three regiments of the First infantry brigade and the field hospital attached by Tuesday, July 11 unless present plans are altered.

Following the order that the First regiment with its six Milwaukee companies, must leave Saturday morning, it became known that the intention is to mobilize the Second regiment on Monday and the Third regiment on the following day. The railroads have already been notified that they will be expected to furnish proper equipment and it is said to be held close at hand. There will be no hitch there.

Get Equipment Friday

The medical examination of the Third regiment will be completed by the federal surgeons by Friday night. Saturday and Sunday will see the completion of all necessary reports and the issuing of arms, ammunition and general equipment.

Rejection of men in the ranks of the First regiment and attached companies by federal surgeons had reduced that body to 1,292 enlisted men and 55 officers. Wednesday night Lieutenant William Sullivan, attached to headquarters, was the only commissioned officer to be rejected.

Officers Storm General

Adjutant General Orlando Holway has been stormed by company captains petitioning for the return of men in their commands who have been rejected for one reason or another.

After a conference with Colonel Kennedy, U. S. A., surgeon in charge of the examination, it was decided that these men shall be given a re-examination. General Holway expects that the return of some of the men, together with recruits, will bring the strength of the First regiment up to 1,400 enlisted men before they leave.

Colonel J. P. Joachim will leave with the first section of the regiment and it is probable that Brigadier General Lorrain T. Richardson, with his staff, will leave with the last section. General Holway will be left to carry out his orders for the departure of the rest of the brigade.

Hospital is Anxious

The field hospital is anxious to go and probably will leave with the second regiment over the Milwaukee road. Many of the members are Milwaukee men and will get an opportunity to say good bye to the folks at home.

The officers of the First regiment are not sorry to learn that their route does not lead through Milwaukee. It will be better for the men not to see their wives and families again, they say. They are anxious to get their men into the south, away from pies, cakes and sweets.

Well! This Is Going To Be Some Show! A "Close Up" Of The Spirit Of La Crosse

The Time—8 p. m. Friday, July 7.
The Place—High School Auditorium.
The Occasion—"Forward La Crosse!"

TAKE THIS FOR YOUR PEP
Atlantic City, N. J.
Frank P. Hixon,
Chairman Membership Chamber of Commerce, La Crosse:
Would like make application membership Chamber Commerce. Congratulations success. Hope my name will make the one thousand mark.
JACOB J. PADESKY.

The greatest show in the history of La Crosse will be the big Membership Meeting of the Chamber of Commerce in the High School Auditorium Friday night.

Twenty-five orators will address the members—no, no! Don't faint!

Elocutionary pyrotechnics will be limited to TWO MINUTES. If any man attempts to exceed that space a great AUCTION GONG will ring him down, even if he is in the midst of an oratorical figure.

"It is La Crosse's Fourth of July celebration, and it will be unsafe and insane," said a member of the committee.

A constitution and by-laws will be adopted. The former may be amended only by a majority of the membership; the latter may be amended by a majority either of the board of directors or of the membership, with the membership in the higher authority.

A president will be elected.

The bureaus will not be touched, but will be organized separately during the next week, each to be represented by two members of the board of directors.

Anything that is unanimously done in this meeting will BE unanimous, for everybody will be there.

LA CROSSE MAN WOUNDED IN ATTACK OF AMERICAN MARINES ON INSURGENTS NEAR SANTIAGO IN SAN DOMINGO ISLE

VENEZUELA AND PERU REPORTED FRAMING A BELLIGERENT TREATY

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

BUENOS AIRES, July 6.—Venezuela and Peru have secretly concluded a potentially warlike alliance against Colombia and Ecuador, according to a report which, though unconfirmed, has reached Buenos Aires from usually reliable sources.

Venezuela wants a strip of eastern Colombia thirty miles wide. Peru wants the portion of Ecuador forming a triangle on the east and the portion of Colombia forming a triangle on the south.

In case of war, it is reported, Peru engages to invade Ecuador on the south, while Venezuelan troops attack Colombia on her eastern frontier.

VILLISTAS REPORTED DEFEATING DE FACTOS PANCHO VILLA SEEN?

EL PASO, Texas, July 6.—Reports of a Villista victory over Carranza troops in a bloody engagement southwest of Jiminez, were followed today by a statement from Manuel Medinaveita, formerly chief of staff to Pancho Villa, that he saw Villa last Friday in San Bautesta, Durango. Villa had 1,200 followers with him, Medinaveita declared to state department officials here. San Baustesta is 35 miles south of Parral.

The heroic death of General Ignacio Ramos at the head of his Carranzista soldiers was related in reports stating that the Villistas thrice were beaten back from the edge of entrenchments. Crack regiments of the de facto government's northern army are said to have been launched on a campaign to wipe out the Villistas. However, the bandits defeated a smaller force of Carranzistas at Corral, southwest of Jiminez, while de facto reinforcements were delayed by a wreck.

WAR HEADS HOLD TO INTENTION TO SEND MILITIA TO BORDER

BY CARL D. GROAT
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Though convinced that danger of war with Mexico has passed the war department today stood by its original intention to send all of the militiamen originally called to the border.

It had been suggested that forces not already entrained might be held at their base mobilization camps, but the department said officially today there has been no change in plans, and that none is in prospect.

Aside from the advantage of mobilization and experience of border patrol, the department deems it advisable to protect the border thoroughly against raids while diplomatic negotiations are in progress. These, it is thought will occupy two or three weeks at the least. In the meantime, some plans for replacing militia with regular army forces may be worked out.

WANAMAKER MAY HANDLE CASH OF COMMITTEE IS POLITICAL SPECULATION

NEW YORK, July 6.—A conference today between National Republican Chairman Willcox and John Wannamaker gave rise to speculation among politicians as to whether Wanamaker is not to be considered for treasurer of the republican national committee. G. R. Sheldon, the present incumbent, is anxious to be relieved before the campaign.

CORPORAL JOHNSON HIT IN ASSAULT ON ENEMY TRENCH

Wounded Man's Parents Are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Johnson, 414 North Sixteenth Street

Oscar J. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Johnson, 414 North Sixteenth street, for eleven years a corporal of the United States marines, was slightly wounded Saturday when his force routed revolutionists who were advancing on Santiago, San Domingo, an island of the West Indies, Saturday.

Advices to this effect were received here today in Washington dispatches and in a short message from Corporal Johnson to his mother and father.

Well Known Here

Corporal Johnson, 29 years of age, is well known in La Crosse. He visited his mother and father three years ago.

Route Large Force

Two hundred and fifty revolutionists were routed according to Washington dispatches. Twenty-seven revolutionists were killed and five wounded. The American forces suffered casualties of one killed, one seriously wounded and seven slightly hurt. The dead American was George Frazee, San Francisco.

A United Press dispatch says:

The Amercans under Colonel Pembleton engaged the rebels at Guayacanes.

List of Wounded

Private E. Daley, Brookersville, Ky., was the seriously wounded man.

Those slightly wounded were: R. D. Putnam, Jeffersonton, Va.

Corporal Oscar J. Johnson, La Crosse, Wis.

Corporal J. A. Glowin, Detroit, Mich.

Drummer G. E. Merriwether, Louisville, Ky.

Private W. F. Johnson, Shelby, Mich.

Private O. C. Oates, Seattle.

Private F. R. Paine, Minneapolis.

The rebels were entrenched in a strong concealed position, and this prevented the Americans from using their artillery in the advance. The enemy outposts opened fire, but the Americans, though taken by surprise, made a sharp attack, soon driving out the Dominicans in disorder.

The number of the rebel wounded could not be ascertained.

MAIN RAILROAD TO LEMBERG IS CUT BY THE RUSSIANS

PETROGRAD, July 6.—Russian troops have captured the village and railway station of Mikuliczyn, thirty-eight miles south of Stanislau, thus cutting one of the main Austrian lines of communication to Lemberg and the main railway over which General Bothmeyer's Austro-German army received supplies.

HOUSTON SPEEDERS IN COLLISION WITH HEAVY STREET CAR

An automobile containing Ole Westby and Ole Moen, both of Houston, Minn., and said to have been speeding, collided with the side of a southbound street car containing a crowd of workingmen and women shortly after six o'clock last night at Fifth and Division streets.

Pandemonium reigned in the street car for several seconds.

Westby and Moen, said to have been in an intoxicated condition, were placed under arrest immediately and locked up at central police station.

They were arraigned before Police Justice Clinton W. Hunt this morning. Westby, who drove the car, pleaded guilty to a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. He paid a fine of $25 and costs. Moen was fined $5 and costs for being drunk.

Westby and Moen were speeding east on Division street. Pedestrians say their car was careening from one side of the street to the other. Before Motorman William Fitting had more than a few seconds' warning the automobile struck the street car. Peter Sieger was the conductor. The machine struck just back of the front vestibule, breaking the glass in two windows and smashing the car door.

The front of the automobile was badly damaged.

When attorneys for the Wisconsin Railway, Light and Power company threatened to attach the automobile today, Westby and Moen paid for the damage they had done to the car.

BOTH GERMANS AND BRITISH MASSING IN GREAT NUMBERS

Kaiser Determined to Stop the British Advance; French Gains Count for Little in Minds of the Germans

FIGHTING IS UNLEASHED

Germans Take Two Small Woods from French, Who Retaliate Northeast of Town of Hem

LONDON, July 6.—A further slight advance for the British in last night's fighting at Thiepval, northeast of Albert, was reported by General Haig, British commander-in-chief, this afternoon. The British took some prisoners.

South of the La Bassee canal, the British made successful raids on enemy trenches after gas and smoke attacks.

Highland Light infantry entered German trenches near Hulluch last night, capturing and killing many Germans.

BERLIN, July 6.—The German war office this afternoon officially admitted that the French have captured Belloy-En-Santerre, south of the River Somme, and that the Germans have also evacuated the village of Hem, on the north bank.

The war office also admitted the British made minor progress, obtaining a firm foothold in the salient of Thievpal. Between the Ancra and the Somme along the British front, the artillery has increased.

On the Verdun front enemy advances southwest of Fort Vaux have been repulsed.

BY ED L. KEEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, July 6.—The kaiser is reported to have arrived on the Somme front accompanied by members of his general staff, who will direct the defense of the German lines in the great allied offensive.

An Amsterdam dispatch today reported the kaiser's arrival and said he had established headquarters near the front and not far from Cambrai and opposite the British front.

Great bodies of German troops are being massed between the Ancre and the Somme to stem the British advance. Allied flyers report the constant arrival of troop trains and Holland dispatches today confirmed reports of heavy concentrations behind the British lines from Ypres to the Somme.

Expect Counter Attack

There is every indication that the Germans will launch a very heavy counter attack against the British lines within seventy-two hours. The object will be not only to stifle the British offensive but to prevent a further advance by the French, who cannot continue the drive eastward if the British lines on their left are bent back. The German blow may fall anywhere along the British front.

All dispatches from Berlin today emphasized the kaiser's determination to halt the British early in the attack at all costs. The German newspapers, paying scant attention to the French success south of the Somme, express elation over the fact that the momentum of the British advance has been checked. The more sober-minded German critics, however, give warning that the battle is only beginning and that regardless of any checks administered to the allies, the attack will continue.

Germans Win; So Do French

PARIS, July 6.—A strong German counter attack north of the Somme last night recaptured from the French two small woods on a front of two-thirds of a mile north of the village of Hem, it was officially announced today.

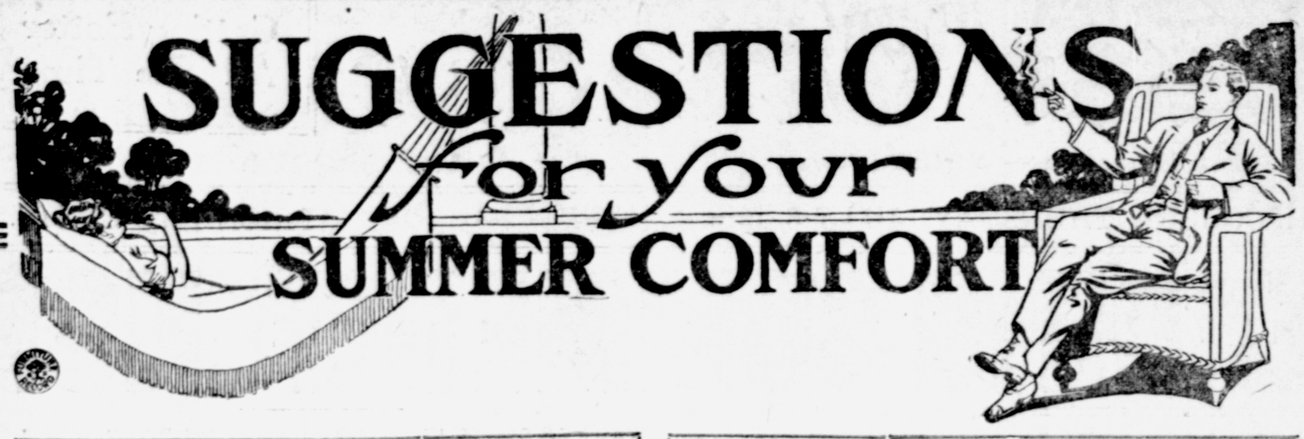

"The French retaliated, carrying a wood northeast of the same village," added the official statement.

"On the south side of the Somme, the night was relatively calm. A German attack on Belloy-En-Santerre was easily repulsed.

Seventy-six guns and several hundred mitrailleuses already have been counted among the booty tak-

JANE GREY STARS IN NEW EQUITABLE FILM

The feature on the program of the Casino theater today will be Jane Grey in the Triumph-Equitable five-reel production entitled, "Man and His Angel." This is the first appearance of this charming young star under the Equitable management, but she will be remembered by motion picture patrons for her wonderful work in various big features produced by the Famous Players and the Triangle companies.

The story of "Man and His Angel" is particularly absorbing in its character studies and the power of its element of suspense. It deals with the influence for good exerted by a woman over a man's evil nature. Miss Grey has a role that offers unusual opportunities for the display of emotional talents, one that wins the sympathy of the spectators from the first. Her performance in this picture is undoubtedly the artistic triumph of her career.

In addition to the charming star, the Triumph Film corporation has provided a superlative cast, including Henri Bergman, one of the world's most noted character actors; Edwin MacKay, for years the most popular among the younger leading men of the stage; and such well-known film players as Robert Lee Hill, Willard Deshielle and Mayme Kelso. The picture was directed by Burton King.

MORE MEN THAN WOMEN HAVE APPENDICITIS

Surgeons state men are slightly more subject to appendicitis than women. La Crosse people should know that a few doses of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-i-ka, often relieve or prevent appendicitis. AMERICAN OFFICER IS NEARLY KILLED BY NOT SALUTING MEXICAN FLAG

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 6.—Attacked by Carranza soldiers at Santa Rosario, Sonora, near Mazatlan, and knocked down and beaten when he refused to salute the Mexican flag and yell "Viva Mexico," Lieutenant N. Wright, executive officer of the U. S. S. Chattanooga, barely escaped with his life a week ago, according to Captain H. Anderson of the steamer Jim Butler, who arrived yesterday from Mexican ports.

A Mexican officer rescued Lieutenant Wright and escorted him to his ship. The Mexican port commandant later boarded the vessel with profuse apologies for the incident, which were finally accepted by Commander Senn, after the Mexicans had been warned.

WING CONNECTED WITH GOOD ROADS SOCIETY

MADISON, Wis., July 6.—To secure legislation leading to the development of a state wide system of continuous highways or trunk lines, connecting all parts of the state of Wisconsin, north, south, east and west.

To create and organize good roads sentiment throughout the state.

To conduct a good roads propaganda and publicity and meetings.

To initiate and urge the passage of good roads legislation.

These are the objects of the Good Roads Association of Wisconsin which has just opened up its headquarters at Madison.

E. M. Wing of La Crosse is vice president of the association for La Crosse county.

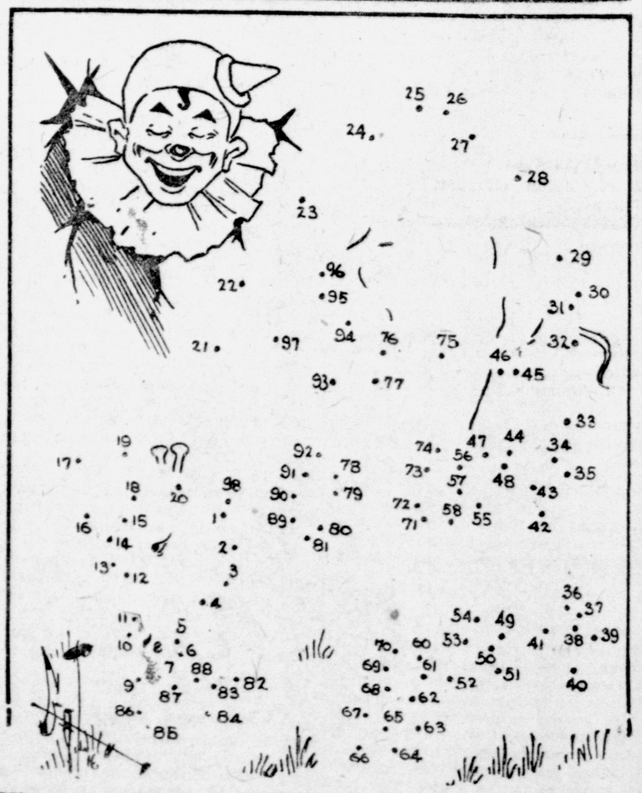

The new association is the first state wide good roads organization and will at once launch on a vigorous campaign for better highways and better highway legislation. Its activities will cover every county in the state of Wisconsin. The dominant note of its campaign will be to develop legislation leading to the building of state wide trunk lines.

In its efforts in this direction the point of view of the association is to make the state the unit of results and the county the unit of construction.

The Searchlight

STOPPING HAIL BY GUN-FIRE

Vineyard owners in France are this year utilizing a peculiar sort of gun as a means of stopping hail storms which are prevalent and frequently ruin the grape crop. The mechanism consists of a large breech-loading gun supported on a tripod. A funnel-shaped smoke stack, which is a continuation of the barrel, passes through the roof and distributes the smoke and force of the explosion into the atmosphere. This anti-hail gun is fired against dark clouds which indicate a coming storm and in many cases effectually scatters them.

AMEND THE STATE LAW

Out of the comedy and bad temper and real hardship of the police campaign against speeding in La Crosse there is taking shape an idea. The idea might have been formed long ago but for the fact that people do not study dead laws. It is the idea that our automobile regulations are not consistent with good judgment as to what is reasonable precaution for the safety of the public.

No one complains of the speed limit in the congested business district, but it is urged that to limit speed to fifteen miles an hour on outlying streets is a restriction neither necessary nor reasonable. On the other hand, it is submitted that a general rule of twenty miles an hour in the suburbs would be a fairly liberal limit, although there is quite general agreement that on the pike to North La Crosse twenty-five miles would not be hazardous.

Citizens who hold these views suggest that it would be better to make the laws reasonable and thus easy of enforcement, and to then enforce them rigidly, than to leave too much to the discretion of officers.

Plainly, the purpose of speed laws is neither to persecute people nor to collect fines, but to safeguard the public. It is obvious that men who are paying fines for traveling approximately twenty-five miles an hour on the causeway really menaced no man's safety. And while the thing is no more consistent than the present scheme to lay a trap in an anti-speed "campaign", it is the law and the court has no option but to punish the defendants.

We believe that the mayor, the chief of police and the police magistrate agree that in some measure the present rules are not logical. If they are not—and we do not profress qualification to judge of the matter—the obvious thing is to revise them.

Unfortunately the speed limit is state law and beyond the reach of municipal authority, but we have biennial access to the legislature.

Would it not be a good beginning for the Chamber of Commerce to make a study of automobile regulations in other well-conducted cities and, co-operating with the city authorities, to invite other cities to join in a movement for the establishment of such rules as all fair-minded men must approve?

The public must be safeguarded. That can be done only by law enforcement. In case reasonable amendments are not made, the present regulations must be enforced. We all want to be safe and we all want to be reasonable. We can be both if we will get together and use our brains.

"FROM THIS TIME ON"

We hasten—we fairly pant—to disclaim the import of a carelessly phrased paragraph which our affable contemporary interpreted as impugning the integrity of the estimable young men who write current history for that able journal, and we unhesitatingly burden our ineptitude with responsibility for the faux pas. Indeed, we esteem the manly defense of his staff conducted from our neighbor's sanctum, and our one regret is that in a moment of righteous indignation his fraternal spirit failed to suppress that scathing exposure of our own mendacity. However, as we face that specific and categorical bill of particulars we are so overcome by the marshaled array that we seek sanctuary behind a general denial, grateful indeed that capital punishment has been abolished in Wisconsin. Until Friday night we shall maintain a strong border patrol, resting confident that there may be successful mediation when we clasp hands at the great Chamber of Commerce harmony meeting in the High school. And as we emerge, chastened, from that bloodless emergency we will vow a vow never to so phrase our comment upon a brief for official delinquency as to suggest the idea of inaccuracy—never "from this time on".

SUPREME TEST OF "PREPAREDNESS"

"Preparedness" is being put to the supreme test. Germany, surrounded by enemies who thrust at her from all directions at once, is giving as wonderful a demonstration of "preparedness" as human brain and daring can conceive. For years Germany has prepared for just this desperate emergency—prepared as only the Teutonic inflexibility of purpose and sheer ingenuity could prepare.

What will be the outcome of it all? Has it paid? Without it would Germany have been humbled long ago? Will it serve her now, if not to best her cordon of foes, to emerge with honor from the terrible ordeal?

There is no doubt, the war granted, that had Germany been no better prepared than the most ready of her foes she would now exist, if at all, by sufferance of other nations. There may be doubt that had she been no better prepared than they, war would have come. It is possible that, instead of serving Germany, "preparedness" involved her in war and created in other countries a sentiment which will eventually make her humiliation great and divest her of future military strength. Europe disposed of Napoleon; it looks at its present task in much the same light.

However, Germany is not crushed, and the best neutral sentiment is for an outcome that will restore the status quo under conditions making possible a stupendous reduction in war investments. No doubt the people of Germany, as well as those of other warring nations, would welcome peace conditions so stable as to withstand such influences as precipitated the present conflict.

GOODIER RETIRED

WASHINGTON, July 6.—First Lieut. Lewis E. Goodier, Jr., coast artillery corps, on Wednesday was put on the retired list with the rank of captain as a result of injuries received while he was an army aviator student. The accident gave rise to a situation which resulted in court martial of Goodier's father, the judge advocate general of the western department.

FIND BODY OF MINING MAN

NEVADA CITY, Cal., July 6.—The body of Alvin R. Kinner of Chicago, superintendent of mines in Mexico and Chile, was found yesterday in Olympia park lake. He was drowned Tuesday. Kenner came here July 2 to take charge of the big Murchie mine.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

"A Soft Answer," Etc.

A stout old gentleman was having trouble with the telephone. He could hear nothing but a confused jumble of sounds, and finally he became so exasperated that he shouted into the transmitter: "Is there a blithering fool at the end of this line?" "Not at this end," answered a soft, feminine voice.

Why Not Experiment?

The worthy couple sat side by side on the broad doorstep, looking, we wotted, as miserable as two lost geese in a hard hailstorm. We asked why they were so sad, in view of the fact that the sun shone brightly and the birds swayed on the adjacent boughs.

"Alas!" they answered. "We have been making a garden. Both of us are somewhat absent-minded and after thinking it over we fear that Samuella has planted the liver pills and Horace has taken the sweet peas. However, we are not absolutely sure about it and it is the uncertainty that hurts."

Just Pride

Owing to the war a wealthy Bostonian, deprived of his summer trip to Europe, went to the Panama-Pacific exposition in its stead. Stopping off at Salt Lake City, he strolled about the city and made the acquaintance of a little Mormon girl.

"I'm from Boston," he said to her. "I suppose you know where Boston is?"

"Oh, yes, I do," answered the little girl eagerly. "Our Sunday school has a missionary there."—Pittsburg Telegraph.

Being Entertained

"I see that Mr. Wallaby Flubdub is the house guest of his father. That seems an unnecessary expression."

"What expression?"

"House guest."

"Oh, I don't know. Sometimes I used to be the guest of my father in the woodshed."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Why Should He

Moved to pity at the sight of a small boy lugging a monstrous bundle of newspapers, a man stopped and asked: "Don't all those papers make you tired?"

"Nope," the little newsie replied cheerfully. "I can't read."

In Society

"My wife gave a reception yesterday."

"Did you attend?"

"Yes, I played a practical joke on her. I got in line when she was receiving and, before she knew it, she was smiling and saying she was glad to see me."

The husband of a nagging woman may furnish most of her because.

THE TRIBUNE'S DAILY TRAVELETTE
(By Niksah)

SALONICA

As a pawn in the game of empires being played across the water, Salonica has attracted a great deal of attention lately. As a quaint and unusual city, it has hardly gotten the attention that is its due.

You are told of Salonica's strategic value, and the defenses that the allies are throwing up in the plains around. You are shown pictures taken from military aeroplanes gliding over the white houses, but no one has seen fit to mention that Salonica is really a Spanish city in the Orient. The language of two-thirds of the people, and the one understood by all, is a form of Spanish, and it is commonly printed in Hebrew characters.

A great part of the population of Salonica is descended from the Jews of Spain, who fled eastward to escape the Inquisition, and the way they have clung to the language of their lost fatherland and the memories of it is remarkable and pathetic. Children are still told tales of the wonders of Spain, and several of the synagogues are named after Spanish cities. It is a curious fact that it is impossible to convince most of these people that they are free to return safely to Spain today if they will. They cling to the belief that their religion is still anathema in the peninsula, and go on printing their Spanish papers in Hebrew letters and sighing as a race in exile.

The rest of the people of Salonica are a heterogeneous mass, drawn from Greece and Turkey and half the near East. The Spanish Jew is the only type who stamps his mark sharply and clearly on the life of the city. After him, for an object of interest you must turn to the ruins of the past, the old arches and gates built by the Romans, looking down in austere disapproval on the noisy and undignified Turkish life swirling at their feet.

Salonica Bay is a pretty sight at any time, with its curious collection of hybrid eastern craft bobbing at anchor or scuttling about. And today there is one of the finest sights to be seen that any sea can offer—the low gray warships rocking on the swells, dipping their knife-like bows in the blue water, impatient, efficient, epitomes of menacing power and grace.

PRUDENCE OF THE PARSONAGE

By ETHEL HUESTON

Copyright 1915 The Bobbs-Merrill Co.

Prudence stopped abruptly. "I don't know," she said, with a stony face. "I can't remember a blessed thing about the old umbrella. Oh, I guess I didn't bring it, at all." She breathed long in her relief. "Yes, that's it, father. I left it at Aunt Grace's. Don't you worry about it. Fairy'll bring it tomorrow. Isn't it nice that we can count on Fairy's remembering?"

"Yes, very nice," he said, but his eyes were tender as he looked down at the little figure beside him.

"And so this is Mount Mark! Isn't it a funny name, father? Why do they call it Mount Mark?"

"I don't know. I hadn't thought to inquire. We turn here, Prudence; we are going north now. This is Main Street. The city part of the town—the business part—is to the south."

"It's a pretty street, isn't it?" she cried. "Such nice, big maples, and such shady, porchy houses. I love houses with porches, don't you? Has the parsonage a porch?"

"Yes, a big one on the south, and a tiny one in front. The house faces west. That is the college there. It opens in three weeks, and Fairy can make freshmen all right, they tell me. I wish you could go, too. You haven't had your share of anything—any good thing, Prudence."

"Well, I have my share of you, father," she said comfortingly. "And I've always had my share of oatmeal and sorghum molasses—though one wouldn't think it to look at me. Fairy gained a whole inch last week at Aunt Grace's. She was so disgusted with herself. She says she'll not be able to look back on the visit with any pleasure at all, just because of that inch. Carol said she ought to look back with more pleasure, because there's an inch more of her to do it! But Fairy says she did not gain the inch in her eyes! Aunt Grace laughed every minute we were there. She says she is all sore up and down, from laughing so much."

"We have the house fixed up pretty well, Prudence, but of course you will have to go over it yourself and arrange it as you like. But remember this: You are not allowed to move the heavy furniture. I forbid it emphatically. There isn't enough of you for that."

"Yes, I'll remember—I think I will. I'm almost certain to remember some things, you know."

"I must go to a trustees' meeting at two o'clock, but we can get a good deal done before then. Mrs. Adams is coming to help you this afternoon. She is one of our ladies, and very kind. There, that is the parsonage!"

Prudence gazed in silence. Many would not have considered it a beautiful dwelling, but to Prudence it was heavenly. Fortunately the wide, grassy, shaded lawn greeted one one first. Great spreading maples bordered the street, and clustering rosebushes lined the walk leading up to the house. The walk was badly worn and broken,to be sure—but the roses were lovely! The grass had been carefully cut—the father-minister had seen to that. The parsonage, to Prudence's gratified eyes, looked homey, and big, and inviting. In fact, it was very nearly gorgeous! It needed painting badly, it is true. The original color had been a peculiar drab, but most of it had disappeared long before, so it was no eyesore on account of the color. There were many windows, and the well-known lace curtains looked down upon Prudence tripping happily up the little board walk—or so it seemed to her.

"Two whole stories, and an attic besides! Not to mention the bathroom! Oh, father, the night after you wrote there was a bathroom, Constance thanked God for it when she said her prayers. And I couldn't reprove her, for I felt the same way about it myself. It'll be so splendid to have a whole tub to bathe in! I spent half the time bathing last week at Aunt Grace's. A tub is so bountiful! A pan is awfully insufficient, father, even for me! I often think what a trouble it must be to Fairy! And a furnace, too! And electric lights! Don't you think there is something awe-inspiring in the idea of just turning a little knob on the wall, and flooding a whole room with light? I do revel in electric lights, I tell you. Oh, we have waited a long time for it, and we've been very patient indeed, but, between you and me, father, I am most mightily glad we've hit the luxury-land at last. I'm sure we'll all feel much more religious in a parsonage that has a bathroom and electric lights! Oh, father!"

He had thrown open the door, and Prudence stood upon the threshold of her new home. It was not a fashionable building, by any means. The hall was narrow and long, and the staircase was just a plain business-like staircase, with no room for cushions, and flowers, and books. The doors leading from the hall were open, and Prudence caught a glimpse of three rooms furnished, rather scantily, in the old familiar furniture that had been in that other parsonage where Prudence was born, nineteen years before.

Together she and her father went from room to room, up-stairs and down, moving a table to the left, a bed to the right—according to her own good pleasure. Afterward they had a cozy luncheon for two in the "dining-room."

"Oh, it is so elegant to have a dining-room," breathed Prudence, happily. "I always pretended it was rather fun, and a great saving of work, to eat and cook and study and live in one room, but inwardly the idea always outraged me. Is that the school over there?"

"Yes, that's where Connie will go. There is only one high school in Mount Mark, so the twins will have to go to the other side of town—a long walk, but in good weather they can come home for dinner. — I'm afraid the kitchen will be too cold in winter, Prudence—it's hardly more than a shed, really. Maybe we'd—"

"Oh, father, if you love me, don't suggest that we move the stove in here in winter! I'm perfectly willing to freeze out there, for the sake of having a dining-room. Did I ever tell you what Carol said about that kitchen-dining-room - living - room combination at Exminster? Well, she asked us a riddle, 'When is a dining-room not a dining-room?' And she answered it herself, 'When it's a little pig-pen.' And I felt so badly about it, but it did look like a pig-pen, with stove here, and cupboard there, and table yonder, and—oh, no, father, please let me freeze!"

"I confess I do not see the connection between a roomful of furniture and a pig-pen, but Carol's wit is often too subtle for me."

"Oh, that's a lovely place over there, father!" exclaimed Prudence, looking from the living-room windows toward the south. "Isn't it beautiful?"

"Yes. The Avery family lives there. The parents are very old and feeble, and the daughters are all—elderly—and all school-teachers. There are four of them, and the youngest is forty-six. It is certainly a beautiful place. See the orchard out behind, and the vine-yard. They are very wealthy and they are not fond of children outside of schools hours, I am told, so we must keep an eye on Connie.—Dear me, it is two o'clock already, and I must go at once. Mrs. Adams will be here in a few minutes, and you will not be lonely."

But when Mrs. Adams arrived at the parsonage, she knocked repeatedly, and in vain, upon the front door. After that she went to the side door, with no better result. Finally, she gathered her robes about her and went into the back yard. She peered into the woodshed, and saw no one. She went into the barn-lot, and found it empty. In despair, she plunged into the barn—and stopped abruptly.

In a shadowy corner was a slender figure kneeling beside an overturned nail keg, her face buried in her hands. Evidently this was Prudence engaged in prayer—and in the barn, of all places in the world!

June Caprice, William Fox's newest star, makes her debut this month in "Caprice of the Mountains."

Caprice lives in the mountains with her father and stepmother—rough mountain people. Because of the cruelty of her stepmother she runs away, but meets Jack Edwards, grandson of an old artist friend of hers. She is persuaded by him to return home, but upon being urged to marry her stepbrother she goes to the home of the artist, where Jack is visiting. After some time she and Jack are married and go to his home, where her rough mountain training gets her and her husband in many embarrassing situations. Finally Jack returns to a life of dissipation and she returns home to the mountains. Here her husband follows and finds her, winning her again and bringing her home.

Well, Anyway, He Is Nice Looking.

Francis X. Bushman's admirers are divided into two warring factions.

One faction protests that he wears his hair too long, and the other faction insists that he has it cut quite short enough.

A voting contest conducted by a woman's magazine some time ago established the fact no other movie actor was so much admired by women as Bushman.

Those who knew Crane Wilbur will have difficulty in recognizing him in one of the scenes in "The Wasted Years." But if they pay close attention to the long-bearded old man seated at one of the tables in the cabaret scene they will notice a striking resemblance to the star. This is the first time that Wilbur has ever hidden the light of his countenance under anything larger than a mustache.

Riley Chamberlain, famous for his appearance on the screen as Conductor 776, will resume the series shortly in a run of new comedies in which he enacts the familiar roles.

Grace Carlyle, well known to the stage, is to appear with Rita Jolivet in her next film play, "An International Marriage."

WHEAT EXPORTS SHOW SLIGHT GAIN AFTER TEN BACKWARD MONTHS

WASHINGTON, July 6.—A slight gain in exports of wheat for May—the first after ten disastrous months—was reported Wednesday by the commerce department. The export was 14,569,699 bushels, as against 14,182,447 for May, 1915.

Owing to prevailing high prices of last year, however, the cash figures show a loss for the month of more than $4,000,000.

Loss of more than $112,000,000 was shown in exportation of wheat for eleven months ending May 30 over that period in 1915, the loss in bushels being approximately 82,000,000.

Corn exported during May totaled 4,939,262 bushels, against 1,301,218, in 1915. For the eleven months ending May 30 corn exports have dropped off more than 12,000,000 bushels and more than $9,000,000.

Exportation of fresh beef for May were 14,515,59 pounds against 19,543,135 for May, 1915. For eleven months, however, a gain of 70,000,000 was registered, with a money gain of about $8,000,000.

Grouping the following commodities—breadstuffs, cottonseed oil, cattle, hogs and sheep, meat and dairy products, cotton and mineral oils—the figures for May show exports of $117,775,925, as against $109,762,475 for May, 1915.

Figures for the past eleven months ending May 30 also show a gain, total exports in this group being $1,102,173,844—an increase of approximately $80,000,000.

WING CONNECTED WITH GOOD ROADS SOCIETY

MADISON, Wis., July 6.—To secure legislation leading to the development of a state wide system of continuous highways or trunk lines, connecting all parts of the state of Wisconsin, north, south, east and west.

To create and organize good roads sentiment throughout the state.

To conduct a good roads propaganda and publicity and meetings.

To initiate and urge the passage of good roads legislation.

These are the objects of the Good Roads Association of Wisconsin which has just opened up its headquarters at Madison.

E. M. Wing of La Crosse is vice president of the association for La Crosse county.

The new association is the first state wide good roads organization and will at once launch on a vigorous campaign for better highways and better highway legislation. Its activities will cover every county in the state of Wisconsin. The dominant note of its campaign will be to develop legislation leading to the building of state wide trunk lines.

In its efforts in this direction the point of view of the association is to make the state the unit of results and the county the unit of construction.

JANE GREY STARS IN NEW EQUITABLE FILM

The feature on the program of the Casino theater today will be Jane Grey in the Triumph-Equitable five-reel production entitled, "Man and His Angel." This is the first appearance of this charming young star under the Equitable management, but she will be remembered by motion picture patrons for her wonderful work in various big features produced by the Famous Players and the Triangle companies.

The story of "Man and His Angel" is particularly absorbing in its character studies and the power of its element of suspense. It deals with the influence for good exerted by a woman over a man's evil nature. Miss Grey has a role that offers unusual opportunities for the display of emotional talents, one that wins the sympathy of the spectators from the first. Her performance in this picture is undoubtedly the artistic triumph of her career.

In addition to the charming star, the Triumph Film corporation has provided a superlative cast, including Henri Bergman, one of the world's most noted character actors; Edwin MacKay, for years the most popular among the younger leading men of the stage; and such well-known film players as Robert Lee Hill, Willard Deshielle and Mayme Kelso. The picture was directed by Burton King.

MORE MEN THAN WOMEN HAVE APPENDICITIS

Surgeons state men are slightly more subject to appendicitis than women. La Crosse people should know that a few doses of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-i-ka, often relieve or prevent appendicitis. This mixture removes such surprising foul matter that ONE SPOONFUL relieves almost ANY CASE constipation, sour stomach or gas. The INSTANT, easy action of Adler-i-ka is surprising. AMERICAN OFFICER IS NEARLY KILLED BY NOT SALUTING MEXICAN FLAG

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 6.—Attacked by Carranza soldiers at Santa Rosario, Sonora, near Mazatlan, and knocked down and beaten when he refused to salute the Mexican flag and yell "Viva Mexico," Lieutenant N. Wright, executive officer of the U. S. S. Chattanooga, barely escaped with his life a week ago, according to Captain H. Anderson of the steamer Jim Butler, who arrived yesterday from Mexican ports.

A Mexican officer rescued Lieutenant Wright and escorted him to his ship. The Mexican port commandant later boarded the vessel with profuse apologies for the incident, which were finally accepted by Commander Senn, after the Mexicans had been warned.

HARVESTERS PLENTIFUL

TOPEKA, Kan., July 6.—Kansas has sufficient men for the harvest. Outside help is not needed, Labor Commissioner McBride said today, despite the militia mobilization. The men who left Kansas for the border were nearly all from the cities—harvesters among them were few.

TELL OF PRIVATION IN DE FACTOS' HANDS

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 6.—Stories of persecution, imprisonment, privation and suffering at the hands of Carranza soldiers were related yesterday by 539 refugees from the Mexican west coast, who arrived in San Diego on the naval transport Buffalo.

The destitute travelers are being cared for by the local branch of the Red Cross sciety.

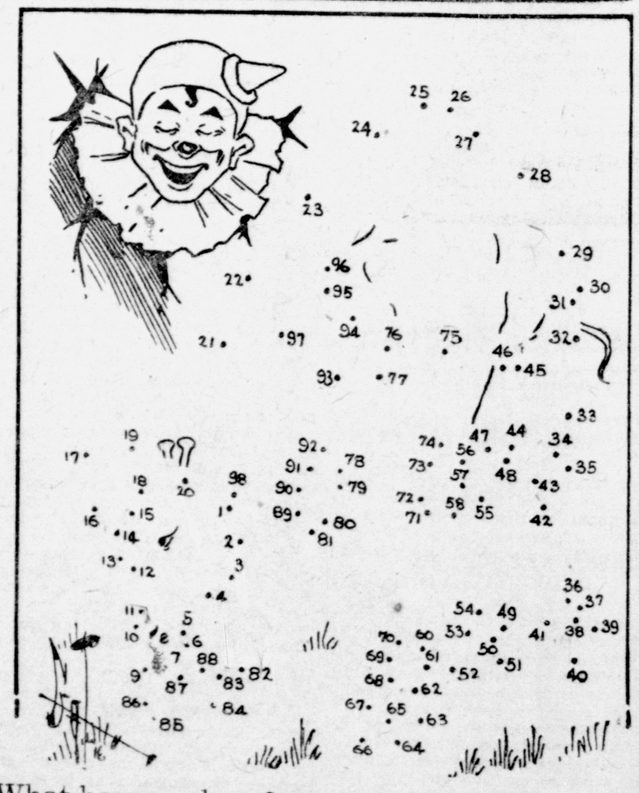

The capture of the American steamer Sonora by bluejackets from the cruiser Cleveland was one of the feats related by the refugees.

Refugees from Salina Cruz, Manzanillo and other southern ports will arrive early next week on the supply ship Glazier.

APPEAL FOR PARDON

WASHINGTON, July 6.—President Wilson today was urged to exercise pardoning power in the cases of John Barry and Paul J. Morrin of St. Louis, convicted iron workers, now serving sentences at Fort Leavenworth.

STOPPING HAIL BY GUN-FIRE

Vineyard owners in France are this year utilizing a peculiar sort of gun as a means of stopping hail storms which are prevalent and frequently ruin the grape crop. The mechanism consists of a large breech-loading gun supported on a tripod. A funnel-shaped smoke stack, which is a continuation of the barrel, passes through the roof and distributes the smoke and force of the explosion into the atmosphere. This anti-hail gun is fired against dark clouds which indicate a coming storm and in many cases effectually scatters them.

AMEND THE STATE LAW

Out of the comedy and bad temper and real hardship of the police campaign against speeding in La Crosse there is taking shape an idea. The idea might have been formed long ago but for the fact that people do not study dead laws. It is the idea that our automobile regulations are not consistent with good judgment as to what is reasonable precaution for the safety of the public.

No one complains of the speed limit in the congested business district, but it is urged that to limit speed to fifteen miles an hour on outlying streets is a restriction neither necessary nor reasonable. On the other hand, it is submitted that a general rule of twenty miles an hour in the suburbs would be a fairly liberal limit, although there is quite general agreement that on the pike to North La Crosse twenty-five miles would not be hazardous.

Citizens who hold these views suggest that it would be better to make the laws reasonable and thus easy of enforcement, and to then enforce them rigidly, than to leave too much to the discretion of officers.

Plainly, the purpose of speed laws is neither to persecute people nor to collect fines, but to safeguard the public. It is obvious that men who are paying fines for traveling approximately twenty-five miles an hour on the causeway really menaced no man's safety. And while the thing is no more consistent than the present scheme to lay a trap in an anti-speed "campaign", it is the law and the court has no option but to punish the defendants.

We believe that the mayor, the chief of police and the police magistrate agree that in some measure the present rules are not logical. If they are not—and we do not profress qualification to judge of the matter—the obvious thing is to revise them.

Unfortunately the speed limit is state law and beyond the reach of municipal authority, but we have biennial access to the legislature.

Would it not be a good beginning for the Chamber of Commerce to make a study of automobile regulations in other well-conducted cities and, co-operating with the city authorities, to invite other cities to join in a movement for the establishment of such rules as all fair-minded men must approve?

The public must be safeguarded. That can be done only by law enforcement. In case reasonable amendments are not made, the present regulations must be enforced. We all want to be safe and we all want to be reasonable. We can be both if we will get together and use our brains.

"FROM THIS TIME ON"

We hasten—we fairly pant—to disclaim the import of a carelessly phrased paragraph which our affable contemporary interpreted as impugning the integrity of the estimable young men who write current history for that able journal, and we unhesitatingly burden our ineptitude with responsibility for the faux pas. Indeed, we esteem the manly defense of his staff conducted from our neighbor's sanctum, and our one regret is that in a moment of righteous indignation his fraternal spirit failed to suppress that scathing exposure of our own mendacity. However, as we face that specific and categorical bill of particulars we are so overcome by the marshaled array that we seek sanctuary behind a general denial, grateful indeed that capital punishment has been abolished in Wisconsin. Until Friday night we shall maintain a strong border patrol, resting confident that there may be successful mediation when we clasp hands at the great Chamber of Commerce harmony meeting in the High school. And as we emerge, chastened, from that bloodless emergency we will vow a vow never to so phrase our comment upon a brief for official delinquency as to suggest the idea of inaccuracy—never "from this time on".

SUPREME TEST OF "PREPAREDNESS"

"Preparedness" is being put to the supreme test. Germany, surrounded by enemies who thrust at her from all directions at once, is giving as wonderful a demonstration of "preparedness" as human brain and daring can conceive. For years Germany has prepared for just this desperate emergency—prepared as only the Teutonic inflexibility of purpose and sheer ingenuity could prepare.

What will be the outcome of it all? Has it paid? Without it would Germany have been humbled long ago? Will it serve her now, if not to best her cordon of foes, to emerge with honor from the terrible ordeal?

There is no doubt, the war granted, that had Germany been no better prepared than the most ready of her foes she would now exist, if at all, by sufferance of other nations. There may be doubt that had she been no better prepared than they, war would have come. It is possible that, instead of serving Germany, "preparedness" involved her in war and created in other countries a sentiment which will eventually make her humiliation great and divest her of future military strength. Europe disposed of Napoleon; it looks at its present task in much the same light.

However, Germany is not crushed, and the best neutral sentiment is for an outcome that will restore the status quo under conditions making possible a stupendous reduction in war investments. No doubt the people of Germany, as well as those of other warring nations, would welcome peace conditions so stable as to withstand such influences as precipitated the present conflict.

GOODIER RETIRED

WASHINGTON, July 6.—First Lieut. Lewis E. Goodier, Jr., coast artillery corps, on Wednesday was put on the retired list with the rank of captain as a result of injuries received while he was an army aviator student. Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

"A Soft Answer," Etc.

A stout old gentleman was having trouble with the telephone. He could hear nothing but a confused jumble of sounds, and finally he became so exasperated that he shouted into the transmitter: "Is there a blithering fool at the end of this line?" "Not at this end," answered a soft, feminine voice.

Why Not Experiment?

The worthy couple sat side by side on the broad doorstep, looking, we wotted, as miserable as two lost geese in a hard hailstorm. We asked why they were so sad, in view of the fact that the sun shone brightly and the birds swayed on the adjacent boughs.

"Alas!" they answered. "We have been making a garden. Both of us are somewhat absent-minded and after thinking it over we fear that Samuella has planted the liver pills and Horace has taken the sweet peas. However, we are not absolutely sure about it and it is the uncertainty that hurts."

Just Pride

Owing to the war a wealthy Bostonian, deprived of his summer trip to Europe, went to the Panama-Pacific exposition in its stead. Stopping off at Salt Lake City, he strolled about the city and made the acquaintance of a little Mormon girl.

"I'm from Boston," he said to her. "I suppose you know where Boston is?"

"Oh, yes, I do," answered the little girl eagerly. "Our Sunday school has a missionary there."—Pittsburg Telegraph.

Being Entertained

"I see that Mr. Wallaby Flubdub is the house guest of his father. That seems an unnecessary expression."

"What expression?"

"House guest."

"Oh, I don't know. Sometimes I used to be the guest of my father in the woodshed."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Why Should He

Moved to pity at the sight of a small boy lugging a monstrous bundle of newspapers, a man stopped and asked: "Don't all those papers make you tired?"

"Nope," the little newsie replied cheerfully. "I can't read."

In Society

"My wife gave a reception yesterday."

"Did you attend?"

"Yes, I played a practical joke on her. I got in line when she was receiving and, before she knew it, she was smiling and saying she was glad to see me."

The husband of a nagging woman may furnish most of her because.

THE TRIBUNE'S DAILY TRAVELETTE
(By Niksah)

SALONICA

As a pawn in the game of empires being played across the water, Salonica has attracted a great deal of attention lately. As a quaint and unusual city, it has hardly gotten the attention that is its due.

You are told of Salonica's strategic value, and the defenses that the allies are throwing up in the plains around. You are shown pictures taken from military aeroplanes gliding over the white houses, but no one has seen fit to mention that Salonica is really a Spanish city in the Orient. The language of two-thirds of the people, and the one understood by all, is a form of Spanish, and it is commonly printed in Hebrew characters.

A great part of the population of Salonica is descended from the Jews of Spain, who fled eastward to escape the Inquisition, and the way they have clung to the language of their lost fatherland and the memories of it is remarkable and pathetic. Children are still told tales of the wonders of Spain, and several of the synagogues are named after Spanish cities. It is a curious fact that it is impossible to convince most of these people that they are free to return safely to Spain today if they will. They cling to the belief that their religion is still anathema in the peninsula, and go on printing their Spanish papers in Hebrew letters and sighing as a race in exile.

The rest of the people of Salonica are a heterogeneous mass, drawn from Greece and Turkey and half the near East. The Spanish Jew is the only type who stamps his mark sharply and clearly on the life of the city. After him, for an object of interest you must turn to the ruins of the past, the old arches and gates built by the Romans, looking down in austere disapproval on the noisy and undignified Turkish life swirling at their feet.

Salonica Bay is a pretty sight at any time, with its curious collection of hybrid eastern craft bobbing at anchor or scuttling about. And today there is one of the finest sights to be seen that any sea can offer—the low gray warships rocking on the swells, dipping their knife-like bows in the blue water, impatient, efficient, epitomes of menacing power and grace.

PRUDENCE OF THE PARSONAGE
By ETHEL HUESTON

Copyright 1915 The Bobbs-Merrill Co.

Prudence stopped abruptly. "I don't know," she said, with a stony face. "I can't remember a blessed thing about the old umbrella. Oh, I guess I didn't bring it, at all." She breathed long in her relief. "Yes, that's it, father. I left it at Aunt Grace's. Don't you worry about it. Fairy'll bring it tomorrow. Isn't it nice that we can count on Fairy's remembering?"

"Yes, very nice," he said, but his eyes were tender as he looked down at the little figure beside him.

"And so this is Mount Mark! Isn't it a funny name, father? Why do they call it Mount Mark?"

"I don't know. I hadn't thought to inquire. We turn here, Prudence; we are going north now. This is Main Street. The city part of the town—the business part—is to the south."

"It's a pretty street, isn't it?" she cried. "Such nice, big maples, and such shady, porchy houses. I love houses with porches, don't you? Has the parsonage a porch?"

"Yes, a big one on the south, and a tiny one in front. The house faces west. That is the college there. It opens in three weeks, and Fairy can make freshmen all right, they tell me. I wish you could go, too. You haven't had your share of anything—any good thing, Prudence."

"Well, I have my share of you, father," she said comfortingly. "And I've always had my share of oatmeal and sorghum molasses—though one wouldn't think it to look at me. Fairy gained a whole inch last week at Aunt Grace's. She was so disgusted with herself. She says she'll not be able to look back on the visit with any pleasure at all, just because of that inch. Carol said she ought to look back with more pleasure, because there's an inch more of her to do it! But Fairy says she did not gain the inch in her eyes! Aunt Grace laughed every minute we were there. She says she is all sore up and down, from laughing so much."

"We have the house fixed up pretty well, Prudence, but of course you will have to go over it yourself and arrange it as you like. But remember this: You are not allowed to move the heavy furniture. I forbid it emphatically. There isn't enough of you for that."

"Yes, I'll remember—I think I will. I'm almost certain to remember some things, you know."

"I must go to a trustees' meeting at two o'clock, but we can get a good deal done before then. Mrs. Adams is coming to help you this afternoon. She is one of our ladies, and very kind. There, that is the parsonage!"

Prudence gazed in silence. Many would not have considered it a beautiful dwelling, but to Prudence it was heavenly. Fortunately the wide, grassy, shaded lawn greeted one one first. Great spreading maples bordered the street, and clustering rosebushes lined the walk leading up to the house. The walk was badly worn and broken, to be sure—but the roses were lovely! The grass had been carefully cut—the father-minister had seen to that. The parsonage, to Prudence's gratified eyes, looked homey, and big, and inviting. In fact, it was very nearly gorgeous! It needed painting badly, it is true. The original color had been a peculiar drab, but most of it had disappeared long before, so it was no eyesore on account of the color. There were many windows, and the well-known lace curtains looked down upon Prudence tripping happily up the little board walk—or so it seemed to her.

"Two whole stories, and an attic besides! Not to mention the bathroom! Oh, father, the night after you wrote there was a bathroom, Constance thanked God for it when she said her prayers. And I couldn't reprove her, for I felt the same way about it myself. It'll be so splendid to have a whole tub to bathe in! I spent half the time bathing last week at Aunt Grace's. A tub is so bountiful! A pan is awfully insufficient, father, even for me! I often think what a trouble it must be to Fairy! And a furnace, too! And electric lights! Don't you think there is something awe-inspiring in the idea of just turning a little knob on the wall, and flooding a whole room with light? I do revel in electric lights, I tell you. Oh, we have waited a long time for it, and we've been very patient indeed, but, between you and me, father, I am most mightily glad we've hit the luxury-land at last. I'm sure we'll all feel much more religious in a parsonage that has a bathroom and electric lights! Oh, father!"

He had thrown open the door, and Prudence stood upon the threshold of her new home. It was not a fashionable building, by any means. The hall was narrow and long, and the staircase was just a plain business-like staircase, with no room for cushions, and flowers, and books. The doors leading from the hall were open, and Prudence caught a glimpse of three rooms furnished, rather scantily, in the old familiar furniture that had been in that other parsonage where Prudence was born, nineteen years before.

Together she and her father went from room to room, up-stairs and down, moving a table to the left, a bed to the right—according to her own good pleasure. Afterward they had a cozy luncheon for two in the "dining-room."

"Oh, it is so elegant to have a dining-room," breathed Prudence, happily. "I always pretended it was rather fun, and a great saving of work, to eat and cook and study and live in one room, but inwardly the idea always outraged me. Is that the school over there?"

"Yes, that's where Connie will go. There is only one high school in Mount Mark, so the twins will have to go to the other side of town—a long walk, but in good weather they can come home for dinner. — I'm afraid the kitchen will be too cold in winter, Prudence—it's hardly more than a shed, really. Maybe we'd—"

"Oh, father, if you love me, don't suggest that we move the stove in here in winter! I'm perfectly willing to freeze out there, for the sake of having a dining-room. Did I ever tell you what Carol said about that kitchen-dining-room - living - room combination at Exminster? Well, she asked us a riddle, 'When is a dining-room not a dining-room?' And she answered it herself, 'When it's a little pig-pen.' And I felt so badly about it, but it did look like a pig-pen, with stove here, and cupboard there, and table yonder, and—oh, no, father, please let me freeze!"

"I confess I do not see the connection between a roomful of furniture and a pig-pen, but Carol's wit is often too subtle for me."

"Oh, that's a lovely place over there, father!" exclaimed Prudence, looking from the living-room windows toward the south. "Isn't it beautiful?"

"Yes. The Avery family lives there. The parents are very old and feeble, and the daughters are all—elderly—and all school-teachers. There are four of them, and the youngest is forty-six. It is certainly a beautiful place. See the orchard out behind, and the vine-yard. They are very wealthy and they are not fond of children outside of schools hours, I am told, so we must keep an eye on Connie.—Dear me, it is two o'clock already, and I must go at once. Mrs. Adams will be here in a few minutes, and you will not be lonely."

But when Mrs. Adams arrived at the parsonage, she knocked repeatedly, and in vain, upon the front door. After that she went to the side door, with no better result. Finally, she gathered her robes about her and went into the back yard. She peered into the woodshed, and saw no one. She went into the barn-lot, and found it empty. In despair, she plunged into the barn—and stopped abruptly.

In a shadowy corner was a slender figure kneeling beside an overturned nail keg, her face buried in her hands. Evidently this was Prudence engaged in prayer—and in the barn, of all places in the world!

June Caprice, William Fox's newest star, makes her debut this month in "Caprice of the Mountains."

Caprice lives in the mountains with her father and stepmother—rough mountain people. Because of the cruelty of her stepmother she runs away, but meets Jack Edwards, grandson of an old artist friend of hers. She is persuaded by him to return home, but upon being urged to marry her stepbrother she goes to the home of the artist, where Jack is visiting. After some time she and Jack are married and go to his home, where her rough mountain training gets her and her husband in many embarrassing situations. Finally Jack returns to a life of dissipation and she returns home to the mountains. Here her husband follows and finds her, winning her again and bringing her home.

Well, Anyway, He Is Nice Looking.

Francis X. Bushman's admirers are divided into two warring factions.

One faction protests that he wears his hair too long, and the other faction insists that he has it cut quite short enough.

A voting contest conducted by a woman's magazine some time ago established the fact no other movie actor was so much admired by women as Bushman.

Those who knew Crane Wilbur will have difficulty in recognizing him in one of the scenes in "The Wasted Years." But if they pay close attention to the long-bearded old man seated at one of the tables in the cabaret scene they will notice a striking resemblance to the star. This is the first time that Wilbur has ever hidden the light of his countenance under anything larger than a mustache.

Riley Chamberlain, famous for his appearance on the screen as Conductor 776, will resume the series shortly in a run of new comedies in which he enacts the familiar roles.

Grace Carlyle, well known to the stage, is to appear with Rita Jolivet in her next film play, "An International Marriage."

WHEAT EXPORTS SHOW SLIGHT GAIN AFTER TEN BACKWARD MONTHS

WASHINGTON, July 6.—A slight gain in exports of wheat for May—the first after ten disastrous months—was reported Wednesday by the commerce department. The export was 14,569,699 bushels, as against 14,182,447 for May, 1915.

Owing to prevailing high prices of last year, however, the cash figures show a loss for the month of more than $4,000,000.

Loss of more than $112,000,000 was shown in exportation of wheat for eleven months ending May 30 over that period in 1915, the loss in bushels being approximately 82,000,000.

Corn exported during May totaled 4,939,262 bushels, against 1,301,218, in 1915. For the eleven months ending May 30 corn exports have dropped off more than 12,000,000 bushels and more than $9,000,000.

Exportation of fresh beef for May were 14,515,59 pounds against 19,543,135 for May, 1915. For eleven months, however, a gain of 70,000,000 was registered, with a money gain of about $8,000,000.

Grouping the following commodities—breadstuffs, cottonseed oil, cattle, hogs and sheep, meat and dairy products, cotton and mineral oils—the figures for May show exports of $117,775,925, as against $109,762,475 for May, 1915.

Figures for the past eleven months ending May 30 also show a gain, total exports in this group being $1,102,173,844—an increase of approximately $80,000,000.

DES MOINES, Iowa, July 6—Mobilization of 4,500 Iowa guardsmen, nearly all from cities and towns, will have no effect upon the harvest hand situation in Iowa, where corn is the principal crop.

JULIUS ROELLIG STILL UNCONSCIOUS BUT WILL RECOVER

The condition of Julius Roellig, nine-year-old son of George J. Roellig, 1501 Badger street, who suffered concussion of the brain from the effects of a fall from a moving Oak Grove Cemetery car near La Crosse street on the evening of the Fourth, is reported to be about the same today. The lad sleeps most of the time and thus far is only partly conscious. Although his condition appeared to be no better this morning, Dr. Herman E. Wolf, who has charge of the boy, is of the opinion that he will recover.

AT THE COUNTRY CLUB

Social affairs this week are being largely confined to the Country club, hostesses finding the club the most convenient place for entertaining on hot days.

Yesterday, Ladies' Day, ninety ladies were entertained at the club at luncheon. Among the hostesses were Mrs. W. M. Sill and Miss Fanny Sill, Mrs. James McCord and Miss Marion Dorset. An interesting feature of yesterday's luncheon was an address on Red Cross work by Miss Grace Edwards. Miss Edwards is well versed in her subject, having been active in Red Cross Relief work in Dayton at the time of the disastrous flood which visited that city, and told of her experiences there. One point the speaker sought to impress upon her hearers—that the relief was administered in such a manner as not to pauperize its beneficiaries, that the chief aim was to help them to help themselves. Miss Edwards was introduced by Mrs. Lilian Finch, president of the Twentieth Century club.

Bridge was played during the afternoon, the prize going to Mrs. Philip Jacobus.

Mrs. Edward L. Colman was hostess at a dinner at the club last evening at which covers were laid for twenty-six.

In the evening Miss Mary Crosby was hostess at a dancing party.

Mrs. James McCord and Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Brindley will entertain at a dancing party at the club this evening.

On Saturday a large crowd is expected at the club, the occasion being the "home and home" play of the La Crosse and Madison golfers.

It was announced by the house committee yesterday that orders for Wednesday luncheons must be in by Tuesday evening.

Teachers Disgusted With the "Much Hose, Few Clothes" Styles

Teachers' Convention in New York Expected to Go on Record in Favor of Suffrage and Modesty in Fashions

NEW YORK, July 6.—The "big drive" of the suffragists in the National Education association convention is under way, but the fight for "women's rights" is overshadowed by protest against "woman's wrongs."

"Down with displays of fine silken hose, down with rice powder all over the nose,"—this is the battle cry heard in every nook of the McAlpin, Waldorf-Astoria, and Astor, where the teachers have gathered.

Three days in New York have thoroughly disgusted the visiting school teachers with the "much hose, few clothes" styles of New York women, and they feel that the gay little high school girls of the United States must be saved from these fashions. Suffrage and modesty in dress will be urged upon the convention.

Dr. Anna H. Shaw will speak tonight and will have some pertinent things to say about feminine vogues. Mrs. Cora G. Lewis, Kansas' most illustrious woman, is leading the fight for modesty and suffrage. Since the women control the vote of the convention it seems certain that the resolutions committee will report on Friday in favor of national suffrage and the plank will embody a protest against immodesty in the garb of women.

Rural school teachers feel that city schoolboys spend too much time in athletics and tea dansants. The back-to-the-soil movement is the only salvation of the country, they claim. Hence the department of agriculture education under the leadership of W. F. Lusk of the University of Minnesota, is urging a resolution to make compulsory agriculture for students in city high schools.

Major General Leonard Wood wound up the fight for military training in the schools with an address to the physical training section today at De Witt Clinton high school.

Next to the suffrage and dress question, the problem of defective children occupied the greatest interest today. Sectional meetings to discuss the problem of training defectives were held.

Plan for revolt against "machine" school systems for a scheme to teaching which would instruct boys and girls how to work was made yesterday by John M. Mills, superintendent of schools of Ogden, Utah.

"A sentiment should be developed in every community," h esaid, "that a boy who graduates from high school and does not know how to make a living should consider himself not only uneducated but disgraced."

The library section of the convention heard appeals for comprehentive library auxiliaries to teaching by Charles Hughes Johnson of the University of Illinois.

MILITIA MAY CROSS BORDER AS GUARD FOR MOTOR TRUCKS

Trip Would Be Severest Test for Citizens Soldiers; Hardened Regulars Are Played Out

SEE FIRST SAND STORM

Food Blown from Plates and Fine Dust Covers Eatables; Guards Will Get Cotton Uniforms

BY WEBB C. MILLER
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

COLUMBUS, N. M., July 6.—A portion of the Massachusetts and of the New Mexico militia stationed here may be sent into Mexico today as guards for motor truck trains to General Pershing's base camp near Colonia Dublan.

The trip across the border will be one of hardships for the civilian soldiers. The smothering alkali dust kicked up by the trucks, the jolting over the rutty trail and the desert sun has wilted the most hardened regulars on thefr first trip.

Yesterday the eastern militiamen got their first taste of a border dust storm. A high wind swept blinding clouds of the alkali dust through their camp throughout most of the day, filling the eyes of the men and causing them considerable suffering. Without goggles they could not leave their tents.

At supper time the wind blew food from plates or covered the eatables with fine dust. The storm tore an aeroplane from its moorings, damaging it slightly.

Throughout the night troop trains carrying eastern militiamen to border points farther west passed through Columbus.

In the camp of the guardsmen joy followed the promise of active service.

Within a few days the militiamen will be refitted with the olive drab cotton unforms issued in tropical service. At present the men have woolen uniforms which add to the discomforts of the intense heat.

VERDUN CATHEDRAL IS BOMBARDED BY SHELLS OF GERMANS

PARIS, July 6.—Verdun cathedral was heavily bombarded by the Germans last night with large shells, the war office announced today. Though violent bombardments occurred on the Verdun front the Germans did not resume their infantry attacks, the war office announced today.

The Germans bombarded French second line trenches near Chattancourt, west of the Meuse. On the east bank artillery duels continued on the sectors of Fleury and the Fumin wood.

In Alsace a French detachment penetrated a trench near Burhaupt, which was found to be full of dead Germans.

EL PASO, Texas, July 6.—The bodies of Captain Boyd, Lieutenant Adair and seven negro troopers, all retrieved from the Carrizal battlefield, were brought by the El Paso undertakers' special train to Juarez today. The remains of the American soldiers will be formally delivered to representatives of the army on the international bridge later today.

Fourteen United States cavalryman, who participated in the Carrizal fight, are still unaccounted for.

NEBRASKA WELL SUPPLIED

LINCOLN, Neb., July 6.—While some of Nebraska's harvest hands have been taken for militia service, the loss is not heavy and it is believed it will easily be made up by the importations from outside the state. Most of the militiamen are boys from the towns.

EPIDEMIC GROWS 25 PER CENT OF CASES ARE FATAL

NEW YORK, July 6.—New York infantile paralysis epidemic toda apparently has spread to several neai by cities. In the meantime it showe greater virulence in the greater cit itself, breaking all rcords for devel opment. Cases were reported so fas through the night that the healt bureau announced early today tabu lations had not been completed t show exactly how many new victim there were, but the bureau estimate that the total since the start of th scourge was now above 600 cases.

The most sinister fact in connec tion with the epidemic is that th mortality from the disease far ex ceeds any previously reported in epi demics here or in other cities. Of the 600 cases at least 150 have been fa tal—a 25 per cent ratio. The record for New York's most fatal previous visitation of the child's disease—in 1897—was less than 20 per cent.

HOW ABOUT JAPAN

X.—Our Turn to Play

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 6.—Why is Japan straining all her resources in the building of battleships today? Why has she increased her army by two divisions, with the prospect of further increases in the near future?

Long ago the European experts pointed the impregnability of Japan's domestic position. No nation on earth can even threaten her supremacy in Far Eastern waters, with the sole exception of her ally, Great Britain. Her home territory is absolutely unassailable, in the words of the experts, "by any power or combination of powers." Yet she appropriates $100,000,000 toward carrying out her naval program. Yet she increases her army.

Preparedness a Burden

Of all first-class nations, Japan can afford such expenditures least. Her taxes are already staggeringly heavy—they have been increased six times in the last twenty years. She has no wealth of natural resources to draw on. Life for her congested population is a far sharper struggle than in the Occident, even without the added burden of a great militarism. It is inconceivable, that a nation in such circumstances would plunge into reckless military expenditures without some immediate and definite purpose in view. In the case of Japan, that purpose cannot be home defence. She has more than enough already.

A consideration of world affairs today has shown how Japan and America stand out as the leading figures in the field of the Pacific. It has shown how Ameirca's interests and principles force her to stand in the way of policies to which Japan is driven by national necessity.

Militarism Not War

Yet Japan's militarism does not necessarily mean war. Militarism has other uses. Japan is a believer in the doctrine of force, in the principle that a nation's position and influence are dependent on its military strength. Her beliefs are the natural fruit of her own experience. When she was weak, she was a toy in the hands of Europe. Her very import duties were set for her by foreign nations. The spoils of the Chino-Japanese war were snatched from her at the moment of victory because she was powerless to resist.

Then she became strong. As her own statesmen point out, her real influence dates from the day of her strength. Backed by the prestige of her victory over Russia, by the fact that Europe knew the strength of her army and navy and their efficiency, she became a world-power, the dominant figure of the Orient. She allied herself on equal terms with the world's greatest naval power, Great Britain. Unopposed, she annexed Korea. Unopposed she dominates Manchuria. Unopposed she has wrenched from defenceless China a set of unjust concessions. It is no wonder she believes in the value of a great army and navy.

Now her policy is on the eve or running counter to the policies of the United States. Her probable course in China is clearly indicated by her past course in Korea and Manchuria. Such a course will result in the cutting off of American commerce and industry from the immense Chinese field, at a time when that field is more valuable than ever before to our expanding, industrial development. Japan needs the Chinese market, and she proposes to take it. More than that, she proposes to use the United States as her means of reaping its benefits. unable to cope with the task of developing China alone, she wants to do the work by employing the financial strength of the United States. American capital will be forced to apply itself through Japanese channels if it is to be applied at all. Japan is compelling China to put the rights of entry and development into Japanese hands. The open door is being turned into a toll-gate with Japan behind the wicket.

The question is not only one of dollars. It is primarily a question of principle, and in that question, America stands for the right. This country today is passing through an acute revulsion from a former weakness for self-flattery. The soul-searchings raised by the great war have punctured a good many bubbles of national egotism. But our Chinese record bears the test. We stand in China for a square deal—just treatment for Chinese, for Japanese, for Europeans, for Americans; a fair field and no favors. We are asserting the fundamental principles of our republicanism and our democracy. There is more than money at stake in China.

Population is Problem

Japan has also the problem of her surplus population to deal with. Her chosen outlet for that population is across the Pacific. Her stumbling-block is the Monroe Doctrine.

Her ends are not confined to questions of expediency alone. She has high ideals in the matter of her destiny. She believes that she is the chosen mediator between East and West. Alone among Eastern nations she has assimilated Western culture and Western civilization without for a moment losing her Oriental individuality. She was the first of Eastern nations to vanquish a Western foe. Her blows at Russia put a new complexion on the relation of half the world to the other half. They destroyed at one stroke the old belief in the innate superiority of the occidental. Japan gained a new status for every Oriental and for herself the place of leader and representative of the Orient—and she gained it by force.

There is the matter of Japan's national pride to be considered. Theoretically at least, and to a very large extent practically, the individual Japanese puts the glory of the empire and the semi-divine emperor above all personal considerations of profit or well-being, even above his life. Such a people can ill swallow arbitrary distinctions drawn against them by other nations, especially distinctions which cast an imputation of inferiority. The Japanese are keenly alive to this aspect of the situation. They have begun to tell us that the time has come for us to stop declaring how much we admire them, and do something to prove it. They have given form to their dissatisfaction with our attitude in a violent press campaign directed against us that has filled the nation with hostility to America.

Preparing For Opposition

Japanese statesmen have never for a moment lost sight of the opposition they may meet from the United States in dominating China and in emigrating across the Pacific. They are preparing to meet that opposition. No other possible object can be found for Japan's great military and naval program.

Japan has learned the lesson of modern diplomacy. She has seen the law demonstrated to perfection in the last few years of her own history—that the weight of diplomatic utterance and protest is neither more nor less than the weight of the fighting power back of it. She has seen one of her cities shelled by the British, in the days of her weakness, to collect an indemnity for a single murdered British citizen. She has seen Europe, in the days of her weakness, dictate the terms of her peace treaty with China. A few years later, grown strong, she saw that she could take from China whatever she wanted, without shadow of a right, by sole virtue of that strength. There was no necessity to fight for it. The mere threat of her power was enough.

Faced now by problems far greater than those she has solved, she is going to enter the diplomatic game of adjusting them with every ounce of possible force back of her diplomatic utterances. The greater her force, the less the chance that she will have to use it.

The player across the board is the United States of America. What weight is Japan going to attach to his diplomatic utterances?

The case of China gives the answer. If helplessness, if unpreparedness, backed only by the right, were any defence against aggression, China would have been impregnable in the China-Japanese negotiations. China was as helpless as it was possible for a nation to be. Her sole weapon was the right, and it won her exactly nothing at all.

What is the United States going to do about it? There is only one reasonable answer, one possible solution. Put behind our diplomacy a force that will enable it to deal with the diplomacy of Japan at least on equal terms. When we consider the relative resources of the two nations, we are put to shame if any idea of economy stands in our way. Japan is the poorest of the great powers; the United States is the richest. It has been estimated not long ago that the bank deposits of New York City alone could wipe out the entire capitalized wealth of Japan, including bank deposits. Yet Japan, carrying a national debt greater than our own, at a higher rate of interest, with her people incomparably poorer and far more heavily taxed, is rapidly outstripping us in her progress toward power. If motives of economy have anything to do with our stand, we are indeed open to the charge that our patriotism does not go deep enough to reach our pockets.

Are We Blind?

If unwillingness to spend the necessary money is not the true cause of our apathy—and as a matt of fact it is not—if we have let ourselves be lulled into a false security, a baseless belief that we do not need preparedness, and preparedness on a large scale, then we lay ourselves open to the charge of being wilfully blind to the trend of events, of stubbornly refusing to open our eyes and see what is plain to be seen. The issues we shall have to meet are clear. The methods that will be employed in adjusting them have been demonstrated.

Those issues can be adjusted and satisfactorily. They will be so adjusted if Japan and America meet over them as man to man, with the mutual consideration born of mutual respect. They will not be so adjusted if our statesmen have to meet the statesmen of Nippon with nothing to lend weight to the claims of our rights and our interests but our unapplied money and our empty hands. If the adjustment is made under such circumstances, it will be made at our expense. It is for the American people to say whether our power shall gain our case consideration, or whether like Korea and like China we shall be a pawn in the hands of a superior force.

A WORD TO THE LADIES

If you are bothered with Goitre, or enlargement of the neck, I have a very good remedy for it, which has cured a great many in my experience. You just apply it every night with a feather—it don't color the skin—and the goitre gradually disappears. I have it in 50c and $1.00 bottles.

I fill mail orders for it too.

It Happens in the Best Regulated Families . . . By Briggs

Alkali Makes Soap Bad for Washing Hair

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats the most expensive soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out everp particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

"MAY GOD SEND THE GRINGOES" IS CRY OF STARVING MEXICANS

FIELD HEADQUARTERS AMERICAN EXPEDITION IN MEXICO, July 5, radio to Columbus, N. M., July 6.—Starving women at San Luis Potosi in a riot when refused food, cried, "May God send the Gringoes," stated reports reaching General Pershing's headquarters today. Several women were severely beaten by soldiers who quelled the outbreak.

Reports of American gold being paid peons for work and supplies for the punitive expedition, in contrast with the virtual confiscation of foodstuffs by the forces of the de facto government, has increased dissatisfaction among Mexicans, according to the reports. The Carranzista troops were said to be over-running the country, seizing everything of value for their own use or forcing the acceptance of depreciated fiat currency at a fifth of the property's value.

en by the French since the present movement began.

Reinforce at Peronne

With French troops now almost in the outskirts of Peronne, the Germans are reinforcing heavily, particularly on their right flank northwest of the village. Southwest of Peronne heavy fighting occurred yesterday.

One cavalry detachment, breaking through a gap in the German second line, actually approached close to the Peronna-Chaulness railway, before being driven back by German fire.

So rapid was the French advance south of the Somme in the early stages of the fighting that German detachments were cut off during the night in some instances and surrounded before they knew they were under attack.

In Historic Region

The region south of the Somme over which the French are now advancing is full of historic interest. In the village of Barleux, southwest of Peronne and in the line of the French advance, the German in 1870 installed artillery for the purpose of bombarding Peronne. The village was honored after the war with the decoration of the Legion of Honor for its heroic resistance to the Germans.

The town of Peronne was a strong fortress in the mediaeval ages. Charles the Simple was imprisoned and died there. Peronne surrendered to Wellington in 1815 and to the Germans in January 1871 after a most stubborn resistance.

Welsh fusileers distinguished themselves in last night's fighting, taking forty prisoners, a trench mortar and a machine gun, General Haig reported this afternoon.

The French have carried by assault the second German lines on a front of two kilometers from the Clery-Maricourt road to the river Somme. They have also captured the village Hem in the same district, according to the official statement issued by the French war office last night.

A midnight report added that the French have captured all the German second positions south of the Somme on a front of about ten kilometers, or seven miles. They also have completed the occupation of the village of Estrees, where 200 Germans surrendered.

RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE TAKES HALF MILLION AUSTRIAN SOLDIERS

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PETROGRAD, July 6.—At least half a million Austrian troops have been killed, captured or badly wounded since General Brusiloff began his sweep through Volhynia, Galicia and Bukowina. This number will be unavailable for the summer and full campaigns of the central powers.

General Letchitzky's advance in southeastern Galicia, after the capture of Kolomea, has been so rapid that his army not only menaces the important cities of Stanislau, but Lemberg and the whole eastern Galicia. The right wing of the Austro-German army is under heavy pressure.

The Austrians are staggering back along the muddy valleys of the Pruth and Dneister, abandoning great quantities of material. The roads in this region, always bad, have been converted into bogs by heavy rains. Pressing the disheartened Austrians are Russian soldiers in high spirits over their continued successes and the allied victories in France.

The growing development of the operations leads to the belief that events are impending which will affect the struggle on the French and Italian fronts and probably the outcome of the Austro-Italian war in the Trentino. Along the entire front the Russians are feeling for weak spots.

DEFINITE PLANS FOR SOLDIERS' RELIEF TOMORROW

Protective Association May Secure Films of Troops at Camp Douglas to Be Used in Benefit for Local Families

A meeting of the La Crosse Patriotic Protective association will be held at the office of Mayor Arthur A. Bentley in the city hall at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon when definite plans will be made for caring for a large number of families of National Guardsmen which will not be cared for by local employers.

"There are a number of small employers in the city who would be burdened too heavily were they to have to pay the salaries of their former employees who are now soldiers," Mayor Bentley said this morning. Many of these families have applied to the association which at a meeting yesterday afternoon borrowed funds with which to take care of them until definite arrangements can be made.

A Milwaukee newspaper, which secured moving pictures of the troops at Camp Douglas, has offered Mayor Bentley free use of the films for a benefit, and the association will avail itself of this opportunity to secure funds for a proportion of the dependents.

D. W. Mac Willie stated this morning that the large majority of guard employers were paying the usual salaries.

BUSINESS SCHOOLS CONVENTION OPENS AT OSHKOSH TODAY

Although representatives from the two local business universities have attended the state conventions of the Wisconsin Commercial Educators' association for years past, the fact that both the La Crosse schools are in the midst of a heated advertising campaign has prevented their people from being present at the state meeting which opened today at Oshkosh.

The W. B. U., and Keeke's were both represented at the inter-state convention held in the Twin Cities this spring. This year's gathering was to have been held at Milwaukee, but because of the death of Robert Spencer and the reorganization of his school there the place of meeting was changed to Oshkosh.

An effort to standardize the business colleges in the state will be made during the two-day meet. An inspection committee has been maintained by the organization for several years to investigate the courses given by the various schools and to report at the annual meetings on the work of the different institutions. It is proposed to appoint a committee to adopt text books and to see that a high standard of work is maintained in the schools.

W. W. Dale of Janesville is the present head of the organization; C. F. Moore, Racine, vice president and W. D. McDaniels of Oshkosh, secretary.

M'LACHLIN MAY BE FAVORED FOR FIRE CHIEF POST

At its regular meeting last night the Fire and Police commission decided to name a new fire chief at its next meeting.

That Captain F. C. McLachlin will be the man was suggested by the fact that the election was delayed after it had been agreed that the department's work was progressing in a satisfactory manner.

However, the commission proposes to make a thorough canvass of the situation before the next meeting, in order that its action may be based upon definite knowledge of conditions and men.

SIX MORE DAYS WILL SEE CAMP DOUGLAS DESERTED

Milwaukee was a visitor in the Third regiment on Wednesday.

A half dozen men in the First regiment, who feared that their wives and families in Milwaukee were suffering from want, appealed to their company captains during the last two days. Captain Ahnert, company F, wrote to Milwaukee and received an answer on Wednesday from General Otto Falk assuring him that if the names of the men were forwarded to the Merchants' and Manufacturers' association ample provision for the keep of the families would be provided. The men are much relieved.

MIDSHIPMEN STRIKE HURRICANE AND THEIR FACES ARE VERY WHITE

WASHINGTON, July 6. — The coast guard cutter Itasca freighted to the gunwales with pale-faced middies from the naval academy today, arrived at Havana harbor, forty-eight hours overdue. The Itasca, which is bearing the midshipmen on their annual service cruise, struck the typhoonish hurricanes in the Caribbean sea Sunday and Monday. Great loss of canvas and general mal-de-mer among the future admirals constituted the only damage.

DAHL SISTERS ASK THAT GOSSIP END

In the hour of their grief the daughters of Mrs. Catherine Dahl, auto victim, have been harassed and humiliated by gossip to the effect that they have accepted a cash settlement for their mother's death. They are Mrs. K. Kittleson, Mrs. Theresa Rochester, Mrs. Arthur Coppin, Mrs. George Nirdsel and Mrs. Nellie Johnson.

"We want the public to know that we have not been approached with money, nor under any conditions would we take money in this matter. We are interested solely in justice being done. It would greatly relieve us in our distress if this scandalous talk would end," said Mrs. Coppin today.

WITHDRAWAL AND POLICING STILL REMAIN PROBLEMS

President Not Convinced Danger Is Over Although Present Crisis Admittedly Is Past

MUST DELIVER THE GOODS

Withdrawal Will Not Be Made Simply on Strength of the Friendly Reply to American Note

WITHDRAWAL EXPECTED

Question of Whether Troops Should Leave Mexico Will Be Taken Up at Cabinet Meeting Tomorrow

BY ROBERT J. BENDER
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, July 6.—President Wilson is not convinced all danger in Mexico is over. The present crisis has passed. Carranza's attitude—now one of co-operation and friendliness—gives tremendous satisfaction to officials. But the border danger still lives. Three problems are yet to be solved.

Withdrawal of the punitive expedition.

Co-operative border patrol.

Cleaning up northern Mexico and re-establishing of peace and order.

However the punitive expedition will not withdraw from Mexico merely on the strength of Carranza's friendly note, it was officially learned today. Indications were, however, that the document paved the way for a discussion which ultimately may end in withdrawal and the establishment of border patrols by both countries. Any withdrawal is contingent upon Carranza's demonstration of ability to police northern Mexico.

Secretary of State Lansing conferred with President Wilson regarding the Mexican note today.

The fact that Carranza did not disavow orders to General Trevino to fire on American troops left a real issue, but officials view his reply as indicating a desire to clean the slate and start anew.

In the absence of Secretary Lansing, who starts his vacation tomorrow, Counsellor Frank Polk will handle whatever negotiations are undertaken. While mediation is not altogether out of the question, direct dealings between Polk and Ambassador Arredondo is the probable administration course.

There are few officials who do not believe three months will see the American troops entirely out of Mexico, most of the militia, if not all, back home and the border under the protection of a strong force of regular soldiers. This military movement will be hastened by evidence of determination shown by Carranza troops to clean up northern Mexico.

Tomorrow the president and his cabinet will take up this phase of the question. It is known the military authorities believe there is no further reason why the punitive expedition should remain in Mexico—at least further south than a patrol zone along the border itself. It is known further that these authorities feel it would be unnecessary and impractical to retain the different militia organizations on the international line for patrol duty longer than three or four months at the most—or not so long, if the situation continues to clear.

The army probably will ask for more regular soldiers—three or four increments, made possible under the new army bill—and it is likely the president and his advisers will follow the army's recommendation.

Following the conference with President Wilson, Secretary Lansing today said a reply would be sent to General Carranza by this government. It will go forward soon.

It was also learned that negotiations with the Carranza government will be taken up through the customary diplomatic channels.

What the reply will embody was gone over thoroughly by the president and Lansing during their forty-five minute talk. No inkling of its contents, however, could be learned.

Mexican Foreign Minister Aguilar today issued a statement to the Mexican people that the government "expected a completely satisfactory solution of all questions at issue between Mexico and the United States without injury to the prime interests of the Mexican republic."

This information was cabled to Mexican Ambassador Arredondo here.

CLOUD PASSES OVER COURT IN SPEEDER LULL

A dark cloud passed over police court this morning when a lull in the arraignment of auto speeders occurred and police ushered Sam Mosely, Negro, and as black as the proverbial "ace of spades" into the room. Mosely admitted being drunk and to the wonderment of the court, paid a fine of a dollar and costs. John Loweman was fined $1.

GREGORY DOESN'T WANT PLACE ON BIG BENCH

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Strong opposition to the placing of Attorney General Gregory on the supreme bench is coming from the attorney general himself. In recent letters and conversations with his intimate friends he declared emphatically his choice would not be a wise one since it would make two members of the bench unable to pass on many cases because of previous participation in the prosecution.

MOBILIZE RECRUITS AT CAMP DOUGLAS IS HOLWAYS ORDER

CAMP DOUGLAS RANGE, Wis., July 6.—Orders were issued by Adjutant General Orlando Holway Wednesday night to recruiting officers in thirty cities in the state to assemble recruits at Camp Douglas before Sunday. They will begin arriving on Thursday. General Holway said that it is the intention to form a depot battalion of four companies. Between 500 and 600 men will respond to the call.

When the recruits have been examined by federal surgeons and drilled they will be sent south to recruit the First brigade, Wisconsin infantry, to full war strength. Troop B cavalry also is expected from Milwaukee before Sunday.

Approximately $40,000 will be paid to the men in the First Wisconsin infantry brigade by the state before they leave Camp Douglas for San Antonio, Texas.

Colonel J. G. Salsman, brigade adjutant, returned on Thursday from a trip to Madison and Milwaukee. The money has been placed in the bank to cover the payroll of the brigade for eleven days in the service of Wisconsin. Since being mustered June 30 the troops have been on the federal payroll.

The First regiment, which entrains on Saturday will not be paid before that morning, according to the colonel. The Second and Third will be paid before leaving Monday and Tuesday of next week.

Men are "Broke"

The men in the ranks are "broke." The fifteen days since coming into camp have been one continuous jubilee but their money is gone. The canteen, where ice cream, pie and tobacco are sold, has taken in as much as $1,600 in one day and the stores in the city have done sufficient business to pay for new stock several times over. It is not intended that the men shall drop any more of their money here and want for little delicacies when they get south because they haven't the cash to buy them.

First Regiment Short

When the First regiment leaves on Saturday it will carry only 1,116 men, 305 having been eliminated by the medical examination, it was learned today. The First battalion, consisting of Company C, Whitewater; H, Monroe; G, Madison, and L, Beloit, will leave at 10:30 Saturday. The Second battalion will entrain at 12:30 and the Third at 2:30.

It was reiterated today that the Second and Third regiments would get under way on Monday and Tuesday.

STORM CUTS OFF CAPITAL WIRES FROM SOUTHERN CITIES

WASHINGTON, July 6—Communication from Washington with Mobile and Pensacola nas been completely cut off since 11 a. m., yesterday, the weather bureau admitted today. Shortly before that time a terrific eighty-mile an hour gale was blowing.

Damage at Mobile

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 6.—A wireless to the United Fruit company here this afternoon from one of its boats in Mobile bay said the hurricane Wednesday and Thursday caused considerable property damage at Mobile. There was no loss of life as far as could be learned. Pensacola, the radio said, was safe.

WELLMAN HERE PRAISING SCENERY

Charles A. Wellman, with his engineering corps, consisting of Messrs. W. C. Wyman, A. J. Wellman and Harold Chapman arrived in the city this morning. The party came by motor from Oshkosh via the Dells and are warm in their praise for Wisconsin scenery.

Mr. Wellman is the man who platted and sold Hillview Place across from the ball grounds some time ago. He also platted and held a sale a year ago in Salzer Terrace surrounding the Hogan school. His present mission in the city is to have this land mowed and re-staked preparatory to having another sale soon.

WELSH WILL DEFEND TITLE

DENVER, Col., July 6.—Freddie Welsh will defend his title of world's lightweight champion in a 20-round bout at Colorado Springs on Labor day afternoon, it was announced here Wednesday.

Promoter Eddie Pitts, representing the Hundred Million Dollar club of Colorado Springs, stated that Welsh today signed articles to fight "any man in the world in the lightweight division" and that his opponent will be one of the "big four"—Charlie White, Johnny Dundee, Benny Leonard, or Ever Hammer.

WHEN the tobacco satisfaction in W-B CUT Chewing makes you all smiles inside and outside, how can you keep from helping out a less fortunate brother? It's rich tobacco, chuck full of satisfaction—and the salt keeps bringing it out without so much grinding and spitting. You need only half-sized chews.

A 10c pouch lasts twice as long as a 20c pouch of ordinary chewing—and dealers who want satisfied customers have it.

MOORE ELECTED PRESIDENT OF LOCAL NET CLUB

J. R. Moore was last night elected president of the La Crosse Tennis club at the second annual meeting of the organization held at the Y. M. C. A.

Other officers elected were:
J. H. Kircher, vice president.
C. R. Pieper, secretary.
J. R. Bridgham, treasurer.
Perry Sletteland, captain.

The above named will constitute the executive committee, which will have governing powers.

A membership of probably 250 is forecasted, in view of interest manifested in the last night's meeting. In excess of 150 men are expected to enter, with fifty women and as many boys. Helen Harrison, Ruth Boynton, Gertrude Tausche and Charlotte Colman were named a committee for arrangements and conduct of women's tournaments. Fred Hankerson, Sidney Burroughs, Donald Dumke, Donald Gordon and Jack Holley will form a committee for the conduct of boys' tourneys.

Several tournaments in each division of the club will be held, it was decided last night. Besides, a number of inter-city meets will be staged, Winona, Prairie du Chien, Blair and Madison to be included. It is probable local stars will play Winona a week from Saturday, probably at Winona.

One dollar was fixed as the yearly fee for men and women. Boys, including the ages of ten and sixteen, will be assessed fifty cents. The payment of fees will cover all items of the club, including admission to tournaments.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

Yesterday's Hero

Umpire Byron, who called Jawn Evers out on strikes and then put Jawn out of the game for kicking.

Ray Keating gave the Senators only nine bases on balls yesterday, passing up twenty other chances.

The Phillies swam into second place when they took the second game from the Braves after the first was postponed on account of rain.

The Cardinals kicked Cincy further into the goo when they sent three runs over in the eighth frame.

Ex-Brave Compton, outfielding for the Pirates, went way, way back to the fence, stuck up one paw and brought down what was slated for a triple by Williams, and still the Pirates lost.

The Giants leave for the fields of fame and glory today, the same being any ball yard away from New York.

It was a fair day for Rainmaker, he putting away three games out of seven scheduled.

Poor old Rube Oldring. Connie Mack turned him out to the pasture because he was too old to chew oats. Now Bill Donovan is trying to coax Oldring to sign with the Yanks and a chance for the world series money in sight. No use working, you have to be born lucky for that kind of stuff.

HOSPITAL CORPS ARRIVES

EL PASO, Tex., July 6.—A train carrying national guard field hospital and signal corps from Pittsburg, commanded by Major Fred G. Miller and a field hospital company from Philadelphia under Major Keiser, arrived here yesterday.

SECTIONS EXCHANGE MUCH IS EXPECTED

NEW YORK, July 6.—With the league leaders, Brooklyn and New York, just a little farther away from the pack than at the first of the week, the western American league teams are invading the east today, while the teams of the older circuit head for the setting sun.

The Yankees, returning to the Polo grounds with a record of sixteen victories out of twenty games on the road, gained half a notch on Cleveland since Sunday, while the Dodgers, taking advantage of the slipping Giants, are now four full games ahead of the Phillies.

Pat Moran's men have been having a merry battle with the Braves for second place.

The Cubs and the Red Sox were the big gainers, each climbing from sixth to fourth place.

Usually the man who loudly announces that he's looking for trouble really is—he wants to see it in time to duck.

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts at first sign of Bladder irritation or Backache.

The American men and women must guard constantly against Kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

ST. PAUL MAN PROMOTED

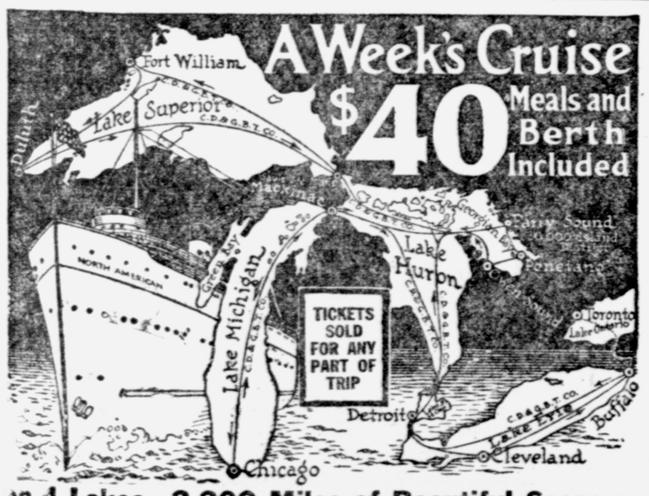

NEW YODK, July 6.—Captain Daniel W. Hand, inspector-instructor of artillery for New York and New Jersey National Guard, was notified by Major General Wood today of his appointment as colonel of the Third field artillery, which is the reorganized Sixty-fifth infantry of Buffalo. He is a native of St. Paul, Minn.

The man who never forgets a favor or forgives an injury isn't apt to make a good friend.

WOULD TAX GRANTEES

WASHINGTON, July 6. — An amendment introduced by Representative Shirley to the Adamson bill was adopted Wednesday, permitting the secretary of war to lay a tax on the grantees of fifty-year water power permits along navigable rivers. The size of the tax is to depend on local circumstances.

The man who looks down on his neighbors is very much surprised when they don't look up to him.

VIENNESE DISLIKE AMERICANS BECAUSE THEY TALK ENGLISH

BY WILBUR S. FORREST
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, July 6.—Americans are decidedly persona non grata in Vienna.

English are detested as much by the Viennese as they are by the Germans, according to an American just returned from the Austrian capital Americans are hated because they speak English.

"It is unsafe for Americans to speak English in the streets and cafes," said the American.

"'We hate everything English, said two Austrian officers to me,' added the American. "I happened to be in a cafe near Graben with some attaches from the American embassy, and, as was quite natural, I was speaking English with them.

"The officers repeated their remark, whereupon I wrote on my card that I was an American, and offered it to them."

"They declined to take my card and asserted more loudly than beforetthat they did not care whether we were English or Americans.

"Everyone in the cafe got excited, stood up and yelled at us, 'Out with you! Get out! Throw them out!'

"We defied the two officers to give us their cards, which they refused. We threw down our cards on their table and left.

"Another day, having said a few words in English over the telephone in a cafe, I was insulted as I left the telephone cabin by a man who said, 'We want no English here,' to which I replied, 'And we wouldn't want you in the states.'"

According to this American, all Viennese shops prominently display postcards, boxes of matches and badges of all varieties, with the motto inscribed, "God Punish England."

The Viennese are of the opinion that the war is all over but the shouting, with the Central Empires on top.

They crowd about the cafes daily, listen to the gipsy bands and drink to the health of the army.

"Though only women, children and old men remain as civilians they look upon the daily rations of bread, meat, sugar and other necessities of life as a military necessity which will soon fade away when the Central Empires deem it prudent to make peace.

Scattered throughout Vienna are numerous government depots for the reception of brass, copper and other metals.

The windows are placarded with posters three feet high, with a picture of a big howitzer firing an enormous shell, and under it the inscription:

"Your government needs copper for these shells."

The people have given practically all the copper they possess but have received a good price from the government for it.

GUARDS LACK SHOES

LAWTON, Okla., July 6.—The federal government refuses to allow the Oklahoma guard to go barefoot, so none of the state troops will move from Fort Sill to the border until supplies of shoes arrived from St. Louis. The shoes worn by the guardsmen are in "frightful shape," according to the officers and some of the men have no issue of shoes at all.

The First Oklahoma infantry has been mustered into federal service and this state now is represented by 1,350 officers and men.

Columbus taught people the world wasn't square. Otherwise they would have learned it later from loan sharks and promoters.

The TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

TARDY, BUT TRUE

BY ELSIE SEE

(Copyright, 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

It was well known in Plainville that Madge Ingram, who five years ago had refused to wed Jim Butler, the merchant prince of the town, was now getting a good salary as private secretary to a city lawyer. It was equally well known that the merchant's young wife of a year kept a servant and an automobile and had charge accounts at the city department stores. Every time Madge came home for a vacation, Plainville weighed the respective merits of her independence and the merchant's wife's affluence, but the shrewdest of the gossips did not suspect that a memory ante-dating her affair with Jim Butler meant more to Madge than anything that had come into her life.

One summer morning Madge alighted from the 6 o'clock train for her vacation without having told of her coming, as she preferred to surprise her parents by appearing unannounced for breakfast. She hurried up the quiet street and, slipping quietly through the yard gate, she picked a handful of dewy nasturtiums before stepping around to the side porch and knocking at the kitchen door.

"My dear child! I just felt you'd come soon!" exclaimed her mother at sight of her.

"The same dear mother—can't be surprised!" laughed Madge, as they embraced.

"But I can be glad, and I am, dearie," said the mother, with a catch in her voice. "And here's crisp bacon and fried apples and hot biscuit just as if you'd ordered your favorite summer breakfast."

"And I'm ready for the breagfast, too," said Madge, with a happy sigh. "But where's father?"

"He's in the garden," said Mrs. Ingram, and the next moment Madge was in the garden, too, and in her father's arms. No sooner, though, had he begun to point out the excellence of his tomotoes and sweet corn than Mrs. Ingram summoned them to breakfast.

"What's doing today, mother? Is there a picnic?" asked Madge, after breakfast.

"Now, how did you guess that?"

"I saw Tom Jordan hauling some giant ice cream freezers and a lot of fruit up to the Maplewood pasture and, oh, I saw a distinguished-looking man in gray tweed over near the hotel. He looked like a man of affairs above and beyond Plainville picnics."

"That must have been Tom Whitlow. He's here for a visit, and he dresses like that and is staying at the hotel."

"Tom Whitlow, who used to—" Madge hesitated, and her mother continued:

"Used to drive Butler's delivery wagon. But they say he's made something of himself. He is manager of some mines out west somewhere, and I guess he deserves credit, for his folks were poor as Job's turkey."

"But Tom was bright and gentlemanly," said Madge quickly, "and he used to help me do my arithmetic problems, although he wouldn't talk to me outside."

"I guess he's still kind o' quiet," said Mrs. Ingram, "for they wanted him to make a speech at the picnic and he made excuses that he'd rather listen than be heard."

That afternoon Madge went with her parents to the picnic, and, although she felt a certain pleasure in greeting her old friends and answering their unvarying questions about her health and her impressions of local improvements, she soon began to feel keenly that she was no longer in sympathy with their lives or they with hers. When people began to gather to listen to the speeches of the county, candidates for office and of the local politician who introduced the speakers, Madge slipped away and went across the little stream and up the hill to the north where she had often gone for wild flowers.

A thick undergrowth had changed the appearance of the hillside, but she soon found what she was seeking, a big oak tree, with a gnarled limb near the ground that formed a rough seat on which she had sat many times watching the birds and squirrels. As she walked around a thick clump of hazelnut bushes and sumacs to reach the grassy space underneath the tree, a tall man in blue serge who had been sitting on the grass with his broad shoulders against the tree, rose and removed his hat in respectful, but embarrassed greeting.

"I hope I haven't startled you," he said, "and may I hope, also, that you would care to remember Tom Whitlow?"

"Not at all," blurted Madge. Then, in embarrassment, she hastened to add: "That is, you didn't startle me, and I'm glad to meet you again. But are you sure you know who I am?"

"You? Why, you're Madge Ingram. Pardon me—Miss Ingram."

"No—let's be Madge and Tom before we begin to be formal," said she, extending her hand. "You used to help me with my lessons, but you wouldn't talk to me. Won't you make up for lost time now by telling me of the interesting things you've been doing?"

"May I not tell you what I wanted to tell you years ago, but hadn't the courage?" His gray eyes were eager and his strong hand still held hers. "May I not tell you that it was you who first aroused in me a desire to do things? Some of the girls at school made mouths because they had to stand beside me in class, but you never did. Those girls, later, looked over my head when they saw me driving a delivery wagon, but you spoke to me even then. And may I tell you that I went away determined to achieve something that would make me worthy of even more than your friendly greetings? I worked away for a year, and then I heard you were going to marry Jim Butler."

He turned away and dropped her hand. In a different tone, he resumed a moment later.

"I never opened another issue of the little old Plainville paper for fear I'd find the account of your wedding. I worked my way through the state university and into mining engineering. For years my work has absorbed me, and I've known nothing of what went on at Plainville, but last week in a railroad restaurant out west I happened to hear news of you. I overheard one woman tourist speaking to another as they sat at dinner. 'I begged Madge Ingram to make this trip with me,' she said, 'but she thought she must go to Plainville. I told her she'd as well have married that merchant after all, but she says there's a lot of difference between going for a vacation and for a lifetime. So she's going to swelter there the first two weeks in August.'"

"That must have been Elsie Warren," exclaimed Madge, "and what a coincidence that you should have heard her say that just as you were starting to Plainville!"

"But I wasn't starting until I heard that! It was knowing you were free that brought me here! It is because I've loved you ever since we were children that I've tried to make myself worthy of you. It's because I love you now that I'm telling you all this in such a blundering way, and it'se because I'll always love you that I'm daring to ask you to go away with me to the West. Madge, could you marry a man who once drove a delivery wagon, and who loves you so much that he is making a sorry mess of telling you?"

She smiled into his face. "You might have asked me that question any time in the past five years, Tom, and I shouldn't have had the courage to refuse," she said.

SOME GOOD ADVICE

Strengthened by La Crosse Experiences

Kidney disease is too dangerous to neglect. At the first sign of backache, headache, dizziness or urinary disorders, you should give the weakened kidneys prompt attention. Eat little meat, take things easier and use a reliable kidney tonic. There's no other kidney medicine so well recommended as Doan's Kidney Pills. La Crosse people rely on them. Here's one of the many statements from La Crosse people.

G. A. Phelps, 1402 Jackson St., La Crosse, says: "I suffered severely from kidney trouble and backache that generally goes with it. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and had great relief."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Phelps had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

POST TEDDY RECRUITER

NEW YORK, July 6.—Regis H. Post, former governor of Porto Rico and a warm personal friend of Colonel Roosevelt, was yesterday named official "recruiting agent" for the division it is said the colonel would like to lead into Mexico in event of war.

Post will receive all applications for membership in the division. The colonel has been so swamped with letters and telegrams that it has not been possible for him to acknowledge them. Without committing himself one way or the other, T. R. has turned the matter over to Post.

WOULD HAVE SALOON AID "Y"

ALTOONA, Wis., July 6.—City council members want to give the proceeds of Altoona's municipal saloon to the Y. M. C. A. The original object of creating the municipal saloon was to build a water works. The money may be divided between the two. Mayor King, opponent of the municipal saloon, resigned yesterday.

The Kind You Have Always Bought.

THIS is the caution applied to the public announcement of Castoria that has been manufactured under the supervision of Chas. H. Fletcher for over 30 years—the genuine Castoria. We respectfully call the attention of fathers and mothers when purchasing Castoria to see that the wrapper bears his signature in black. When the wrapper is removed the same signature appears on both sides of the bottle in red. Parents who have used Castoria for their little ones in the past years need no warning against counterfeits and imitations, but our present duty is to call the attention of the younger generation to the great danger of introducing into their families spurious medicines.

It is to be regretted that there are people who are now engaged in the nefarious business of putting up and selling all sorts of substitutes, or what should more properly be termed counterfeits, for medicinal preparations not only for adults, but worse yet, for children's medicines. It therefore devolves on the mother to scrutinize closely what she gives her child. Adults can do that for themselves, but the child has to rely on the mother's watchfulness.

Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

LEGAL NOTICES

Notice for Administration and Notice to Creditors

State of Wisconsin, County Court, La Crosse County—In Probate.

In re-estate of Sarah Spears, deceased.

Notice is hereby given, that at the special term of said court to be held on the first Tuesday, being the 1st day of August, A. D., 1916, at the Court House in the City of La Crosse, County of La Crosse, and State of Wisconsin, there will be heard and considered, the application of William Spears, for the appointment of an administrator of the estate of Sarah Spears, late of the City of La Crosse, in said county, deceased;

Notice is hereby further given, that at the general term of said Court to be held at said Court House, on the first Tuesday, being the 7th day of November, A. D., 1916, there will be heard, considered and adjusted, all claims against said Sarah Spears, deceased.

And notice is hereby further given, that all such claims for examination and allowance must be presented to said county court at the Court House in the city of La Crosse, in said county and state, on or before the 4th day of November, A. D., 1916, or be barred.

Dated July 3rd, 1916.

By the Court,
HON. JOHN BRINDLEY,
Judge.

WOLFE, WOLFE & REID,
Attorneys for Estate.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.
Street Improvements.

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Public Works of the City of La Crosse will until two o'clock in the afternoon on the 21st day of July, 1916, receive sealed proposals for the furnishing of all materials and doing of all work incident, necessary and required to be done to improve each of the following streets in the City of La Crosse, Wisconsin, by paving, in accordance with plans and specifications for the improvement of each such street, heretofore adopted by the Common Council of the City of La Crosse and on file in the office of the City Clerk for the inspection of bidders.

Streets to be so improved by paving are:

Main street from Eighth street to Eleventh street, to be paved with brick.

Third street from Mississippi street to Jackson street, to be paved with brick.

St. James street from Rose street to Caledonia street, to be paved with brick.

Livingston street from Kane street to George street, to be paved with asphalt macadam.

Ferry street from West avenue to Thirteenth street, to be paved with asphalt macadam.

The work upon each such street must be done in accordance with the plans and specifications above referred to, and to the satisfaction of the undersigned Board of Public Works of the City of La Crosse.

Work upon each such street must be commenced at once upon the letting of each contract and each such street shall be completed on or before the first day of October, 1916.

In the event that any contractor shall fail to fully and completely perform his contract within the time therein limited for the performance thereof, he shall pay to the City as liquidated damages for such default a sum equal to one-half of one per cent of the aggregate cost of the work embraced in such contract for each day of delay after the time limited, such sum having been determined and fixed by the Board of Public Works in accordance with the charter of the City of La Crosse as the amount of liquidated damages properly to be paid by each said contractor for any default in regard to any of said contracts.

Direction to Bidders.

1. Separate bids are requested as to each separate street to be improved.

2. This Board has prepared a form for the contract, with proper blanks for sureties required, which it furnishes gratuitously to all persons desiring to bid.

3. No bids can be considered unless accompanied by a contract with sureties as prescribed by the forms so furnished, complete with the exception of the signatures on the part of the city.

4. Bids must be submitted on forms provided by this Board.

5. Personal sureties upon contracts must be free holders of the county and each must justify as to his responsibility in double the amount of their contract.

6. Surety companies licensed to act as such in Wisconsin, which shall attach to the contract evidence of such license, will be accepted in lieu of personal sureties.

7. Bidders must submit separate proposals as to each separate work of improvement. Do not join a proposal as to work on one street with that on another street. Contracts properly executed must be submitted as to each street.

8. Each bid must be a proposal to furnish all material and do the entire work as described in the plans an specifications at an aggregate sum for all material and work.

Attention of bidders is called to the provisions of the Statutes of Wisconsin and Special Charter of La Crosse relating to the letting of contracts for city improvements and demand is made that bidders follow carefully all requirements thereof.

Blanks for proposals, contracts and sureties will be furnished gratuitously on application to the City Clerk, City Engineer or this Board.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

CITY OF LA CROSSE.

KITCHIN IS FRANK IN OPENING DEBATE ON WILSON REVENUE BILL

WASHINGTON, July 6.—After the house had agreed to vote Monday on the administration revenue bill, Majority Leader Kitchin this afternoon opened the debate on the measure in a speech remarkable for its frankness. He made plain, while earnestly advocating the bill's passage, that his feeling toward the White House has not grown friendly. He also announced his intention to oppose acquiescence by the house in the senate's action increasing the naval bill to $315,000,000.

Terming it a non-partisan measure, Kitchin said the bill ought to command the support of all republicans except a few "extreme old time reactionaries, such as Hill, Moore and Fordney, and the men who gravitate toward them."

It is apparently a brown and not a yellow peril that confronts the United States.

BORLAND ANXIOUS FOR FAVORABLE REPORT ON BEEF PROBE RESOLUTION

WASHINGTON, July 6.—At the final hearings of the house sub-committee on the Borland resolution for an investigation of the Beef trust by the federal commission petition was presented by 125 members of the house asking the judiciary committee to report the resolution favorably immediately. It is understood the resolution will be reported in time for the house to act on it next week.

Besides complaint that packers have manipulated prices, Representative Borland, in a final statement prepared for the committee, declared the packers are building up a line of packing houses in South America and Australia enabling them to fix even exports.

SOUTHERN DEPARTMENT DIVISION IS DELAYED

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., July 6.—The southern department of the army will not be divided into three sections as planned, at least for some time, it was intimated at department headquarters here today. Reasons for the probable delay could not be ascertained.

The arrival of the Third and Fourth Illinois infantry leaves but one regiment, the Eighth infantry, to complete the contingent from that state. All regimental commanders of the militia along the border have been ordered to get their men into condition for hard service as rapidly as possible.

An Easy Way To Get Fat And Be Strong

The trouble with most thin folks who wish to gain weight is that they insist on drugging their stomach or stuffing it with greasy foods; rubbing on useless "flesh creams," or following some foolish physical culture stunt, while the real cause of thinness goes untouched. You cannot get fat until your digestive tract assimilates the food you eat.

There is a preparation known to reliable druggists almost everywhere which seemingly embodies the missing elements needed by the digestive organs to help them convert food into rich, fat-laden blood. This modern treatment is called Sargol and has been termed the greatest of flesh-builders. Sargol aims through regenerative, reconstructive powers to coax the stomach and intestines to literally soak up the fattening elements of your food and pass them into the blood, where they are carried to the starved, broken-down cells and tissues of your body. You can readily picture what result this amazing transformation should produce as with increased weight the cheeks fill out, hollows about neck, shoulders and bust disappear and from 10 to 20 pounds of solid, healthy flesh is added to the body. Sargol is absolutely harmless, inexpensive, efficient. Hoeschler Bros. and other leading druggists of this vicinity have it and will refund your money if you are not satisfied, as per the guarantee found in every package.

NOTE:—Sargol is recommended only as a flesh builder and while excellent results in cases of nervous indigestion, etc., have been reported, care should be taken about using it unless a gain of weight is desired.

ATTORNEYS ARE DOUBLE TRACKED AT RATE HEARING

When is a railroad a double-track railroad?

Is a railroad a double-track railroad if it is four hundred miles long and possesses twenty-five miles of double distance?

Is the Burlington a double-track road from Chicago to La Crosse? Is it a double track road from Dubuque to La Crosse? Do you know?

Is the Northwestern a double-track road for the movement of freight from Chicago to Elroy? J. M. Cleveland, assistant traffic manager for the C. & N. W., says it isn't; S. J. Boulton, representing the La Crosse Shippers' association, says it is.

All of which goes to show that if you ship a ton of coal from a southern Illinois coal mine to La Crosse, provided it is known to the trade as number two screen, and if a St. Paul brewery also ships a ton of coal from the same place at a proportionately lower rate, and if the competition in hauling coal is keener at St. Paul than at La Crosse, the La Crosse merchant says he is discriminated against, and the interstate commerce commission is going to have its hands full.

Knotty Questions

These and similar knotty questions involving reasonable and unreasonable, discriminatory and non-discriminatory rates on the 75,000 tons of Illinois soft coal used by La Crosse manufacturers are involved in docket 8652 heard this morning at 9 o'clock before Examiner A. B. Pugh of the interstate commerce commission, in the federal court room.

The La Crosse Shippers' association, by S. J. Boulton and W. W. West, its representatives, complains that the rates on soft coal to La Crosse are unfair and discriminatory, inasmuch as Twin City merchants get the same coal at a proportionately lower figure. The same state of affairs is true, they allege, with regard to the rates to Madison, Janesville and Beloit from the Illinois mines.

The rates involved are a $1.40 ton rate from northern Illinois mines, $1.80 rate from central Illinois mines, and $2.10 rate from "Egypt," or the southern Illinois manufacturers, from five to ten and fifteen cents.

The question as to the double-track railroad developed in a lively skirmish between Mr. Boulton and the attorneys for the railroads. Mr. Boulton stated in his examination that inasmuch as railroads don't lay double tracks for fun, he would assume that a double track meant heavier tonnage. This statement was promptly attacked by Attorney Burgess for the Burlington, and J. M. Davis for the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul.

Local Man Testifies

R. W. Keyes, representing the La Crosse City Fuel company, testified that La Crosse uses about 75,000 tons of Illinois soft coal, and that in his judgment the rates to La Crosse were unreasonable. H. A. Walter appeared for the John Gund Brewing company, C. J. Marble for the Listman Mill company, and E. S. Case for the La Crosse Plow company. Their testimony alleged that their keenest competition was the competition of St. Paul, Minneapolis, Madison and Beloit firms. Cross-examined by Attorney Davis, Mr. Case could not say how far an unreasonable coal rate was responsible for this condition.

After a recess of five minutes the railroads began the presentation of rebuttal testimony.

Dockets 8651 and 8816 are scheduled for hearing this afternoon. These are known as the "beer" and "banana" cases.

Verse and Reverse

THE FARMER'S SONG

Wealth, with its splendor, my lot may be scorning;
Careless am I as the thrush in the morning.
And I sing, with the thrush trilling gay:
"Gold may be good and rank may be fair,
Better a conscience untroubled by care
And a heart that is light all the day."

Out in the fields where the grain and the grasses
Bow to the breeze that over them passes,
I sing as I watch my grain grow:
"Others may boast of their power and their wealth,
Better by far is the freedom and health
I find in the fields that I sow."

Bright are the fields with blossoming clover,
Blue is the sky that bends lovingly over,
And I sing, with the thrush in the tree:
"Life it is good and the world it is fair,
Gold can not purchase a tithe of the share
Of earth's blessings apportioned to me."

Welcome is wealth to the gauds it is wearing,
Princes are welcome to thrones they are heiring,
And I sing, life's journey along:
"Heir to the kingdom of nature am I,
Heir to the forest, the field, and the sky,
And a place at the portal of song."

MOTORCYCLE MIKE WITH NEW BUNCH OF SPEED ARTISTS

Police Say Charles Moody Was Operating Motorcycle Forty Miles Per Hour; Many Speeders Arraigned

Another speed fiend party, including one man who parked his machine without lights, one who ran with his muffler open and a motorcycle rider who is alleged to have been converting a La Crosse street into a speedway by running forty miles an hour, was begun in police court by Judge Clinton W. Hunt yesterday afternoon.

It continued practically all day today.

Those arraigned were:

James Collins—Paid fine of $5 and costs when found guilty in trial for speeding. Fine and costs remitted.

Christ Hanson—Paid fine of $3 and costs for operating car with muffler open.

John Reed—Charged with running twenty-two miles an hour. Fined $25 and costs for second offense.

Edwin Erickson—Paid fine of $3 and costs for parking his machine on the wrong side of the street and without lights.

Martin Dokken—Fined $10 and costs for speeding twenty-four miles an hour.

E. W. Ryan—Fined $10 and costs for operating his machine at the rate of twenty miles per hour.

Arthur Thurston—Arraigned and charged with running thirty-two miles an hour. Pleaded not guilty but changed his plea to guilty and fined $10 and costs.

Clarence Moody—Charged with operating a motorcycle forty miles an hour, pleaded not guilty and was arraigned for hearing this afternoon.

Judge Hunt today called attention to the fact that all fines, including costs, go to the city treasury.

Dr. Flynn Pinched

Dr. Robert Flynn, county physician, was arraigned before Judge Hunt this afternoon, charged with speeding. He pleaded not guilty and his hearing set for July 13.

Two men, both having the name of Frank Brown, were charged with speeding. One of the Frank Browns paid a fine of $10 and costs and the other denied the charge of speeding. He will be heard tomorrow afternoon.

Motorcyclist Pays

Arthur Thurston, who this morning entered a plea of not guilty to speeding, this afternoon paid a fine of $10 and costs. Frank Moody, motorcyclist, charged with running forty miles an hour, this afternoon paid the conventional $10 fine.

Others fined $10 and costs this afternoon were W. H. Tarbox, Burton James and George Voight.

THEY'RE GETTING BIGGER AS THE SEASON ADVANCES

Several weeks ago "Doc" Strombeck and Joe Michalski reported the catch of a thirty-pound cat fish in local waters. "Hap" Hansen was not to be outdone and his fifty pounder made "Doc's" look like a minnow. And now comes the first pair back with another tale corroborated by several men who saw the catch. "Doc" and his friend journeyed to Trempealeau bay yesterday morning with a can of worms and two poles. Three hundred bull-heads averaging about eight or nine inches in length, 12 bass and 4 pickerel, were the result.

ALLEGED MURDERER AND TWO OTHERS ESCAPE FROM WAUKESHA JAIL

WAUKESHA, Wis., June 6.—Three men, one an accused murderer, escaped from the Waukesha county jail some time last night and as yet have not been apprehended. The men are:

George Lambsfelder, accused of the murder of George Schaftrie of the town of Lisbon.

Fred Bond, charged with blackmail.

Ray Dillon, charged with stealing bicycles.

BISHOP OLDHAM IN SERIES OF MEETINGS HERE

Bishop William F. Oldham, of the Methodist Episcopal church, New York, recently appointed bishop of South America, arrived in La Crosse today. He is a guest at the home of Rev. J. H. Klaus, pastor of the German Methodist church. Bishop Oldham speaks to the Ladies' Aid society of the German church this afternoon. He will address a meeting in the auditorium of the German church at 8 o'clock tonight, and will speak at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning to the pastors and Christian workers of the La Crosse Methodist churches. At 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon he will speak at the West Avenue church, and at 8 o'clock in the evening at the First Methodist church. Rev. D. C. Jones, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, urges his members to attend the services.

TOXICOLOGIST ADMITS CYANIDE WOULD FORM SPOTS ON CLOTHES

COURT ROOM, WAUKEGAN, Ill., July 6.—The jury that will determine Will Orpet's innocence or guilt of Marian Lambert's murder, sat through another chemistry lesson today.

Out of a chaotic mass of chemical symbols, equations, opinions and experiments, the state and defense battled to bring out the answer to the question the jury must decide: murder or suicide, which?

Dr. John A. Wesner, toxicologist, who had testified for the defense that three spots on Marian's coat were not caused by liquid cyanide of potassium, as the state contended, was faced by the state to admit the spots would be identical if made by cyanide of potassium in either liquid or powder form.

The state also drew from him an admission that the cyanide found on Orpet's father's premises at the McCormick estate could have been practically pure before it was thrown, at the elder Orpet's direction, into an ash heap. Ashes would force it to deterioriate, he said.

COMMISSIONER HEARS THREE APPLICATIONS

Wisconsin Industrial Commissioner J. D. Beck, Madison, today heard three applications for compensation at the court house here today. They were Henry Miller vs. The La Crosse Boot and Shoe company; Nicholas Hanson vs. Halderson and Garder, and Anna Hoffman vs. The National Guage and Equipment company.

POLICE WITHOUT CLUE TO MAIL POUCH ROBBER

La Crosse police, who are working with federal authorities on the rifling of a government mail pouch here Tuesday night, said late this afternoon that they were without a clue. They have been endeavoring to connect a man who they arrested here yesterday. The man was trying to sell watches which are believed to have been taken from a parcel post package in the mail pouch.
